THE OHIO CONVENTION.

Unusual interest attaches to the proceedings of the Ohio Republican Convention, held yesterday, a full report of which is given elsewhere. The platform is short, sharp, comprehensive and to the point, resembling in its direct and vigorous incisiveness, the declaration of principles lately put forth by the Republicans of Pennsylvania. It is a subject for sincere congratulation that President GRANT'S letter to General HARRY WHITE, of this State, did not prevent the Ohio Republicans from incorporating an outspoken anti-third term plank in their platform. To our mind, indeed, this action was all the more necessary in consequence of the letter, in order distinctly to show that Republican opposition to a third term is solely a matter of principle, and is in no wise directed specially against the President himself. The great States of Pennsylvania and Ohio having now spoken in such emphatic tones on this vital question, the Republicans of every Northern State will undoubtedly in turn wheel into line, all the more for the reason that the dictates of duty and the promptings of self-preservation are identical in the premises. The President having publicly declared that he has no ambition for a third term, the Republicans of the entire country can now, without the slightest reflection upon himself, declare conclusively against it on principle, and thus give the final coup de grace to the whole miserable and mischievous business.

In view of the specially aggressive and offensive attitude which the party of Vaticanism in that State has assumed with reference to the public school question, the thoughtful protest of the platform against assaults upon the schools or the school fund, come from what quarter they may, strikes us as eminently proper. In this country no church nor sect, as such, has any right to a dollar of the public moneys, and the State cannot permit theologic dogmas to be taught in any of its public institutions. Nor is this infidelity. The religion of the State is comprised in the simple words GOD and Morality, and beyond this, in the infinite variety of creeds, it cannot and ought not to know any choice.

The platform, as a whole, is largely infused with the spirit of the clear and fundamental Pennsylvania resolves, and will stand the test of the most rigid analysis and inspection.

As respects the candidates, they are an uncommonly strong set. There seems to be no doubt that ex-Governor HAYES, who was unanimously nominated against his repeatedly avowed expressions of disinclination, will poll a larger vote than any other candidate who could have been selected. He has a splendid war record, his Congressional career was not less distinguished for private integrity than for public efficiency, and the people of his State were so thoroughly satisfied with his course as Chief Magistrate during his first term, that they immediately and peremptorily insisted on his serving them in the same capacity for another. His character is as sterling as his abilities are marked, and these are supplemented by a personal popularity so exceptionally great as to render safe the prediction that he will be elected by an overwhelming majority.

The remainder of the ticket is composed of tried and trusted men, whose reputations, public and private, are without stain. With such candidates, on such a platform, and with such an enviable spirit of harmonious cohesion pervading the entire rank and file of the party, the redemption of the State is assured. The Democrats, indeed, have themselves forged and furnished the very weapons with which their destruction will be wrought.

The nation stands upon the threshold of the stirring memories and events of our centennial year. Of the great States of the Union it is Ohio's privilege to speak her thought first. She will pronounce the party of freedom and progress, as against the party of exclusion and reaction. And Pennsylvania will answer to the same end and in a kindred key.

General Sherman Introduced to the Convention and Makes a Speech.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.
COLUMBUS, OHIO, June 2, 1875.

The Convention gathered in the Opera House at eleven o'clock. There is a full attendance of delegates, casting 547 votes, and the house is crowded, the lower floor being covered with delegates and the upper with spectators. The Chairman of the State Convention, Gen. Wikoff, called the Convention to order. Prayer by Rev. Mr. Hutchison.

Hon. Lorenzo Danford was introduced as Temporary Chairman, and addressed the Convention at some length. He referred to the promises of reform and retrenchment made by the Democrats two years ago, and their utter failure to redeem any of the promises then made. The experience of Ohio under the control of this party was such that the State could not afford to keep them in power. The Democratic Legislature was so bad that the leaders were anxious to adjourn it with the business of the State but half attended to, but not without providing that when they got into the penitentiary they should have the choice of their spiritual advisers. Ohio, he argued, was the battle ground of the campaign of 1875, and it was the duty of the Republicans to so labor as to carry it out to secure success in 1876. There must be no division of sentiment or action among the Republicans of Ohio, either as to platform or candidates, and they must stand by the common schools, whether assailed by Bishop McQuaide, the Democratic party or the Devil. They must also be outspoken upon the third term, standing by the example of Washington, and they must come to the front in this contest with the aggressive spirit of the Republicans of old, sure of victory if they rally firmly into line and stand shoulder to shoulder.

Temporary secretaries were chosen, and the various Congressional districts were called over for members of the various committees of the Convention, one from each district on each committee. A committee of five was appointed to wait on General Sherman and invite him to the floor of the Convention. Adjourned until two o'clock.

At two o'clock the Convention reassembled. The Committee on Permanent Organization reported ex-Governor Noyes as Permanent President. Governor Noyes returned thanks in a very neat speech.

The committee appointed to wait upon General Sherman introduced him to the Convention. He was received with uproarious enthusiasm and made a short speech, thanking them for his cordial reception.

The Convention proceeded to receive nominations for Governor. Judge R. Taft, R. B. Horton, General R. B. Hayes and Benjamin F. Wade were nominated.

A letter from Judge Taft was read, committing himself decidedly and emphatically against any division of the school funds for sectarian purposes.

Mr. Foster presented a dispatch from Governor Hayes, declining to be a candidate against Judge Taft. He was instrumental in bringing out Judge Taft and would not accept a nomination over him.

The Convention, however, was determined to nominate Hayes, and refused to pay any attention to his dispatch. Mr. Eggleston said the people had a right to nominate whom they pleased, and no man would decline a nomination thus tendered.

The Convention then proceeded to vote for Governor, and when the list of counties was called through, the vote was: for Hayes 325, Taft 186, Horton 25, Wade 19. But before the vote could be announced the delegations began to change their votes, and the nomination of Hayes was then made unanimous. The Secretaries were then directed to telegraph this action to Governor Hayes and get his answer.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

The Committee on Resolutions being ready to report, the following report was read and unanimously adopted:

The Republicans of Ohio, in Convention assembled, reaffirming the cardinal principles of this organization, which have become received maxims of policy, state and national, declare on specific points the series of sentiments following:

First—The States are one as a nation, and all citizens are equal under the laws and entitled to their fullest protection.

Second—That a policy of finance should be steadily pursued which, without unnecessary shock to business or trade, will ultimately equalize the purchasing capacity of the coin and paper dollar.

Third. We are in favor of a tariff for revenue, with incidental protection to American industry.

Fourth. We stand by free education, our public school system, the taxation of all for its support and no division of the school fund.

Fifth—Under our Republican system of government there should be no connection, direct or indirect, between Church and State, and we oppose all legislation in the interest of any particular sect. Upon this subject we should not fail to profit by the experience of foreign governments, where the efforts of the church to control the State constitute an evil of great magnitude, and endanger the power and prosperity of the people.

Sixth—We demand such a revision of the patent laws as will relieve industry from the oppression of monopolies in their administration.

Seventh—A grateful people can never cease to remember the service of our soldiers and sailors, and it is due to them that liberality and generosity should obtain in the speedy adjustment of pay and bounties.

Eighth—That we demand that the public domain shall be scrupulously reserved for occupancy by actual settlers.

Ninth—The determination of the Government to collect the revenue and prevent and punish frauds, has our unqualified approval.

Tenth—That the power of municipal corporations to create debts, should be restricted, and local and other expenditures should be reduced so as to diminish taxation.

Eleventh—The observance of Washington's example in retiring at the close of a second Presidential term, will be in the future, as it has been in the past, regarded as a fundamental rule in the unwritten law of the Republic.

Twelfth—The distinguished success of his administration, which to the fame of the patriot and soldier has added that of the capable and judicious statesman, entitles President Grant to the gratitude of his country.

The ballot for Lieutenant Governor was postponed until Governor Hayes could be heard from. George W. McIlvaine, for Supreme Judge; James Williams, for Auditor, and John Little, for Attorney General, were severally nominated by acclamation.

On the ballot for Lieutenant Governor, General Thomas L. Young, of Cincinnati, received 401 votes, Wales 56, Gardner 74, and Edwards 9. Young was then nominated unanimously, and made a short speech thanking the Convention.

At this point Charles P. Taft, of Cincinnati, desired, on the part of his father, to move that the nomination of Governor Hayes be made unanimous, so as to relieve him from all embarrassment as to an acceptance of the nomination. At the suggestion of Governor Noyes, the Convention responded with three rousing cheers, rising bodily to its feet and joining in a regular old-fashioned shout. This was followed by three cheers for Taft and three more for Noyes.

The first ballot for Treasurer was very much mixed. It resulted: For Wallace, 61; Milliken, 79; Ogilvie, 41; Johnson, 29; Grow, 60; Wooster, 77; Stebley, 22; Oviatt, 44; Turney, 109; Nelson, 34. No choice.

Second ballot—Nelson, 25; Stehley, 17; Wooster, 57; Ogilvie, 49; Turney, 228; Wallace, 62; Milliken, 142. No choice.

Third ballot—J. M. Milliken 320, Turney 181, Wallace 40. Milliken was then nominated unanimously. After the close of the second ballot, a delegate urged the selection of Mr. Milliken, as the representative of the agricultural interest, and this carried him through on the third ballot.

The President then read a dispatch from Governor Hayes accepting the nomination, which was received with tremendous applause.

For Board of Public Works, Peter Thatcher, of Cleveland, had 362, and Jones 161 votes.

The ticket nominated is an excellent one throughout, and will be elected.

A. T. Wikoff was re-elected Chairman of the State Committee.

[To Associated Press.]

GENERAL SHERMAN'S SPEECH.

The following is General Sherman's speech to the Convention:

"Gentlemen—I confess to feeling scared, and if I could with decency have avoided the call I would have done it; for this is the first time I ever stood in a political convention. I have been raised as a soldier and taught to obey orders. When you, gentlemen, have chosen Governors and legislators, it is our duty and pleasure to obey the laws made by them. I came here to bury my old aide and staff officer, Colonel James McCoy, whom so many of you knew. I have seen him laid away in a beautiful quiet spot, just east of the city, and must leave this afternoon. I came here simply as a mark of respect to the gentlemen who compose this convention. Ohio has now come to be regarded as the most important State in the Union. I hope you will all be endowed with wisdom sufficient for the important duty which has called you together to-day. Again I thank you."

A formal protest against the right of Senators Priest and Proctor to seats was presented by Senator Whitney and ordered on file. A ballot for President resulted in the election of John W. Sanford, of Wakefield, who received the seven Democratic votes, the Republicans not voting. The five Republican Senators then withdrew from the chamber, and the other officers were chosen. The seceding Senators met in another room and organized temporarily by electing G. H. Stowell President, and Tyler Westgate clerk, after which they adjourned.

PRESIDENT GRANT'S FIRST TERM.

The Rumor that He Sought the Democratic Nomination.

An Emphatic Denial from the President.

Montgomery Blair Has a Different Understanding of the Matter.

THE CHORPENNING CLAIM AGAIN.

Serious Charges Laid Before the President Against High Officials.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2, 1875.

Interview with the President on the First Term.

The publication of the President's third-term letter has been followed by publications in New York and elsewhere asserting, on the authority of Montgomery Blair, that General Grant had almost daily visited Mr. Blair's house in 1867-68, to consummate negotiations looking to bringing him out as the Democratic nominee for the Presidency in 1868. These statements were brought by your correspondent to the attention of the President to-day. He pronounced them entirely untrue, and said that he had never entered into negotiations with Mr. Blair with any such object in view, and had never entertained such an idea.

Mr. Blair Interviewed.

Mr. Blair's attention was subsequently called to the matter, and he said the publication alluded to was made without any authority from him. He remarked, however, that when, in the summer of 1867, he brought forward General Grant's name as a suitable person to be nominated for the Presidency by the Democratic party, he felt thoroughly satisfied that it met with General Grant's approval. Mr. Blair says that the late General Rawlins, who, as is well known, was the bosom friend of General Grant, was at this time thoroughly in favor of General Grant's receiving the Democratic nomination. General Grant, Blair says, was not at this time in sympathy with the Republican party or with its leaders. He had an intense dislike of Mr. Stanton, and had, before this time, told President Johnson that if Stanton was to remain in the Cabinet he did not want to stay in Washington, but would like to remove the army headquarters. Mr. Blair says he was very much surprised when, after all this, General Grant did conclude to accept the nomination of the Republican party. In regard to the third-term letter, Mr. Blair says that it does not alter the situation one particle; that, of course, General Grant does not want a third term if he cannot get it; but if the chance is presented to him he will accept. He looks upon Grant as by all odds the strongest man in the Republican party, and his strength will be much greater, he says, if the Republican party is defeated in the elections this fall; that when the Republican Convention comes to get divided upon Blaine, Morton, Bristow and the other aspirants, the end of it will be that it will unite upon Grant as the most available man.

The New York Mail Service.

The Postmaster General stated, to-night, that he had not been advised of any detention of mails sent hence by the Baltimore and Ohio road; it was probable that they would continue to be forwarded as usual by that line for a day or two longer. He wishes the public to see that he has no partiality as between the two companies, but he considers that it will be incumbent on him to accept the proposition of Mr. Scott unless Mr. Garrett is able to propose something better.

The Chorpenning Claim Again.

It is understood that serious charges, in connection with the Chorpenning claim and other matters, affecting high officials in the Postoffice Department and also involving a Senator, were laid before the President one day this week. Considerable surprise was expressed by the President at the nature of the charges, which are now being investigated.

The President's Last Summer Levee.

This being the last day of the President's residence at the Capital for several months, a large crowd of officials, officeholders and others were in attendance and importuning for an audience. Among these, was Moseby, the ex-guerilla, who went in under the wing of a Federal official. Moseby has apparently had his day.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2, 1875.

PRESIDENTIAL TALK WITH THE INDIANS—THEY REFUSE TO SIGN THE AGREEMENT.

The President had a council with the Indians at the Interior Department to-day. The press and all outsiders were excluded. The Commissioner gives the following synopsis of the interview: The President explained the agreement that had been drawn relinquishing the right to hunt in Nebraska, and reserving to them the country north of Niabrara river, outside of their reservation. All the country north of the North Platte is considered as unceded territory. By this they give up portions of this country and reserve the part where the Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies are located. He said the $25,000 was for presents, and not to be given in money. He offered to allow them to name a person to receive the money and buy such things as they wanted, if the person named was a proper person to receive it. He expressed his desire to see them well provided for during his term of office, and asked them again to consider the question of removing to the Indian Territory. Spotted Tail said the Government was asking too much; that a certain portion of their country had never been ceded; and he wanted to know when they were to be paid for that. He alluded to the section which they still intended to retain. He declined to sign this agreement, and said he would go home to his people and send word back what he would do. He was told the money would lapse into the Treasury June 30th, and he asked if some one here could hold it until they could return to their country and send word back what his people would do. Much further conversation followed upon the subject, and the President was finally compelled to leave, the Indians having declined to sign the agreement.

DESTRUCTIVE STORM IN INDIANA.

Extensive Damages to Railroads and other Property—Two Lives Lost.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 2.—A violent wind and rain storm prevailed in this region from an early hour last evening till midnight. Nearly all the railroads centering here suffered more or less in the loss of bridges and culverts. On the Indianapolis Peru and Chicago Railroad, three small bridges are washed away, and on the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette, the bridges at Zionsville and Acton. An accident on the Bellefontaine road was caused by the washing away of a culvert near Fortville. The enginner, Alonzo Rose, and the firemen, Ed. Bowen, were instantly killed. The country in the vicinity of Fortville is completely inundated.

The Evening News publishes the following special from Cambridge City: "The heavy rains last night and this morning have been very damaging to crops and property throughout White Water Valley, and at this point especially. The west fork of White river has overflowed its banks, flooding fields in its course and washing away fences and tracks at the race ground. Poirson creek was swelled to a roaring torrent, and besides damaging property along its bank to the extent of $10,000 (as it is estimated), it has taken a huge piece out of the Wayne turnpike, and carried off the Valley bridge on the Cincinnati road and several below it. Half a mile east of Cambridge City an engine and three freight trains, westward bound over the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis road, was thrown from the sunken grade early this morning and badly wrecked. There is a gap of 240 feet. The bridge at Knightstown is reported giving way. The east pier of the bridge at Charlottsville is washed off at a point fifteen miles west of here. One mile South, on the Shelbyville road, the waters have made a fissure forty feet wide and carried off part of the track. The long trestle over Simon's creek is three feet out of line, with its abutments badly washed, making a new structure necessary. Travel is suspended in all directions, and the damages is reported heavy to crops. The loss in this region is estimated at more than a quarter of a million dollars."

DEDICATION OF THE NEW MASONIC TEMPLE

The ceremonies of the dedication of the new Masonic Temple, at Twenty-third street and Sixth avenue, may be said to have commenced yesterday afternoon, when the annual session of the Grand Lodge of the State was opened.

At an early hour the city was astir with Masonic bodies moving from their headquarters to the point designated for them by the Marshal of the day.

Three guns were fired in quick succession from Washington Square, and immediately the signal to move was communicated to the head of the lengthy street by the waving of guidons. Marshal Preston and his aids then took their positions at the head of the line, and the procession, marshalled in twenty divisions, took up its march. Preceding the Masons came twenty-four mounted policemen and two platoons of officers on foot. The Marshal's staff and mounted aides were all designated by conspicuous badges and wore their handsome jewels upon the left breast. The commanderies looked well, and the elegance of their appointments, together with the excellence of discipline, obtained for them many favorable comments along the line of march. The banners were occasionally supported by a force of knights arranged in the shape of a cross. The principal feature was the Detroit Commandery. This commandery is said to be the most proficient in the peculiar drill of the Knights Templar of any organization in the country. They were not long in demonstrating their claims to a great deal of credit for celerity and soldierly precision, for soon after the line moved they began their evolutions, and continued them at short intervals all along the line of march without in the least retarding, the general movement of the procession. Their movements included the formation of a line with a front of fifty men, and these were formed with such dexterity and in such good order as to provoke constant applause, and they went on their way rewarded by hearty clapping of hands and the flutter of handkerchiefs from the ladies, who occupied every available window on Broadway, where the procession could be seen to advantage. As the Eighth division passed Fifteenth street, the blue lodges filed into their places from streets on either side of Fifth avenue.

Previous to this their lines had been broken to permit as many of the order as possible to witness the attractive part of the parade. The remaining divisions, up to the Twenty-sixth, were each provided with bands of music, and consisted of from ten to fifteen lodges each. Each lodge was represented by from one to two hundred members, although the divisions were very unequal in strength of numbers. No. 1, In the Twenty-fifth division, St. John's Lodge was the Bible on which Washington took his first oath of office as President of the United States. In this division were also borne the vessels containing corn, wine and oil, a golden symbolic lodge carried by four worshipful masters, and the Holy Writings, square and compasses resting upon a cushion of purple velvet. The orator of the day, Judge John L. Lewis, together with visiting officers from other jurisdictions, occupied carriages, and in the rear of the line came the Commissioners of Appeal, the Grand Secretary and Grand Treasurer, preceding the Grand Master, who rode between four Grand Stewards bearing their rods of office.

The decorations were numerous and, in the main, tasteful, but along Madison and Fifth avenues there was an absence of display, with the exception of the flags which were displayed from the Union League Club building, a few private residences and the hotels. The decorations at the Temple were not profuse, but they were arranged with good taste and to the best advantage. It is estimated that there were not less than four thousand Knights Templar in line, representing about forty lodges of Masons. There were nearly two hundred lodges represented by an average of one hundred men. The bands of music were thirty-nine in number, and the parade was fully twenty-four thousand strong. The regulations as to dress, were almost without exception complied with, and the few instances in which they were disregarded made the individuals who wore low hats or figured pantaloons conspicious objects in the procession. With the exception of short halts, which are unavoidable in moving so large a body, the line moved along the prescribed route with but trifling interruption, passing through South Fifth avenue, Canal street, Broadway, Fourteenth street, Fifth avenue, Twenty-second street, Twenty-third street, Madison avenue and Twenty-third street to the Temple.

As the line advanced it was met with hand-clapping and huzzaing on every side, and numberless women at the windows freely waved their handkerchiefs. The entire procession occupied two hours and a half in passing a given point. Broadway presented an extraordinary appearance. Immediately below Canal street the roadway was blocked by carriages and wagons filled with spectators, as indeed were all the side streets along the line. The houses were many of them decked with flags and streamers, some of which were decorated with Masonic symbols, and the windows and roofs of buildings were crowded with spectators. Groups of ladies occupied all the show windows, and the sidewalks to the curbstones were jammed with spectators, all of whom seemingly entered fully into the spirit of the affair. During occasional breaks in the line, policemen assisted cardrivers and cartmen to cross the streets with their vehicles, but for the most part traffic was suspended entirely along the line of march.

After several hours of weary waiting, the crowd assembled in front of the Temple were gladdened by the arrival of the Grand Lodge. The officers alighted from carriages at the curbstone and marched up the steps, headed by the Grand Master and accompanied by past grand officers, representatives of other grand lodges and special guests. It was ten minutes of two when the large body began the ascent of the stairs, and the last member did not pass in until nearly half an hour afterward. At the head of the stairs they were met by the officers having the ceremonies in charge, and directed to their proper positions in the hall of the Grand Lodge. The hall was not decorated, except at the east end, where, on a raised platform, there were many beautiful floral adornments. On either side of the stage stood the pillars of the temple's outer porch, made of evergreen and ivy leaves twined about with red and white flowers. In the center was a large floral bank of various colors, representing an altar, to the left of which stood the ark of the covenant, draped with a flowing white cloth. The Grand Lodge filed in first and were assigned seats in the body of the room. The musical programme consisted of a hymn for baritone solo and chorus, "Thou who art God alone," written by Dr. Leopold Damrosch expressly for the occasion, and conducted by him in person; a "Te Deum," by Professor Caswell; a Masonic ode, "Our temple reared, complete it stands," by Harrison Millard; and chants, marches, an invocation, grand chorus and doxology. The other exercises began with prayer and reading of selections from Scripture by the Grand Chaplain, followed by an address by the Grand Master, the presentation of the architect, N. Lebrun, and the brother builder, John T. Conover, to the Grand Master, and the latter's response. A procession of officers was then formed and conducted around the chamber. The Grand Chaplain then offered the consecration prayer. The Grand Master poured on the lodge a vessel of corn, dedicating the lodge to Freemasonry; a vessel of wine, dedicating it to virtue; and a vessel of oil, dedicating it to universal benevolence. John L. Lewis, Past Grand Master, then pronounced an oration of some length. The Grand Master next advanced to the south, west and east, and in each place proclaimed the new Masonic hall dedicated, after which the grand honors were given and the lodge was covered.

CHARMS

We admire the rainbow, the cascade, the rippling brook, the "ragged edge" canyons and craggs, all that is beautiful in nature; the statue painting and poem in art; but the full, graceful, lithe and voluptuous in figure; the feature, complexion and beauty of face—Charms of women chian us to rapture. The chiefest of these is beauty from TOILETINE.

Republican State Nominations.

FOR GOVERNOR,
JOHN. F. HARTRANFT.
FOR STATE TREASURER,
HENRY RAWLE.

They are going to pray the grasshoppers out of Missouri to-day. The Constitutional Convention will however, remain over.

The shipments of ore from the Lake Superior region have opened up briskly. Up to May 27th there had been forwarded to market 26,778 tons.

Chicago claims to be the arbiter of the grain markets of the world. How about the broken back of that recent speculative Chicago combination?

It is understood that that Maine man whom the courts recently decided to be "the biggest liar in the State," will start a Democratic paper forthwith.

The Republican party of Texas have, by an overwhelming majority, nominated ex-Governor Edmund J. Davis as their standard-bearer in the next contest.

In its reference to current political questions in this State the Post draws chiefly on its imagination for its facts and relies principally on malice for its argument.

Applications were received from the Comptroller of the Currency during May for the organization of sixteen national banks, having a proposed capital, in all, of $2,150,000.

People soon weary of mere rhetorical grimace, and there is a kind of satirical levity which creates violent suspicion of a vacant mind. The Tribune is badly troubled with these habits.

The howling dervishes of the Democratic press are as mad as hornets over the discovery that the Republican party does not propose to dance attendance for cold victuals on the White House steps.

The excitement regarding the coal discoveries in the Rifle river region of Michigan, some forty miles northwest of Saginaw, continues. Another coal vein, ten feet thick, was developed lately, four miles east of the location of the first discovery.

The American and Foreign Bible Society and the American Bible Union, two of the most important societies of their character in the world, are shortly to be consolidated. The new society will take the title of the American and Foreign Bible Union.

The stockholders of the Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, and the Wilmington and Reading Railroad Companies, held their respective meetings on Monday last and approved of the agreement entered into by the Directors, a short time since, for consolidating the latter company with the former.

The domestic exports from New York since the first of January aggregate $95,300,000, against $112,700,000 for the corresponding period of last year. The Financial Chronicle thinks this a fair average for the country, but such is not the case. New York has lost considerably more than any of the great Atlantic ports.

No wonder the Erie Railroad fell into bankruptcy. In an interesting table of statistics regarding United States railways which have been borrowers in England, the London Times shows that the Erie stands first in the amount of its capital, which is nearly $27,000,000, against $23,500,000 of the Pennsylvania, with four times its earnings.

The incomparable misrule of the Democratic government of New York city has very seriously impaired the prosperity of that place, resulting in a debt of more than $100,000,000, which is a mortgage on one-twelfth of its real estate, while the latter is shadowed by the prospect of a tax heavier than ever levied before, and large arrears of last year still encumber the books.

One of the lay members of the late Iowa Episcopal Convention has just published in the Dubuque papers an open letter to Dr. Eccleston, the newly elected Bishop, in which he distinctly charges bribery and fraud on the part of the clergy in bringing about that result. This is a very serious charge, if true, but it probably arises more from spleen than from knowledge of corruption.

The latest crop reports from the West are of a very cheering character. A large acreage of corn has been planted and stands well. So, too, of small grains. Notwithstanding the backward season, there never were fairer prospects for a large harvest the coming autumn. In Southern Kansas wheat and rye are in full head and blossom, and are gilding for the early harvest. The prospects of good fruit crops are also excellent, and altogether the advices show an agricultural prosperity and promising condition, the subjects of hearty congratulation.

Philadelphia and Baltimore are cutting the foreign trade of New York badly. During the month of May there were entered at the latter port one hundred and fifty-three vessels from foreign ports, of which number seventy-eight were under the American flag, the others being distributed among foreign nationalities. The clearances for the same period were one hundred and twelve, principally with cargoes of corn, wheat and petroleum for Europe, and assorted cargoes for the West Indies. The total value of the exports for the month was $2,276,423. The receipts in coin for duties on imports for the month were $612,665 41, or $180,580 90 more than for the corresponding month last year.

The Buffalo Commercial Advertiser prints a statistical exhibit of the flour and grain trade of that port from the opening of navigation up to the 31st of May. It is an unfavorable showing, there having been a large decrease alike in the receipts of breadstuffs by lake and in the shipments by canal. The receipts of flour aggregate 68,772 barrels, against 191,736 barrels in 1874, while the total imports of all kinds of grain, including flour reduced to wheat, are 4,652,897 bushels against 10,043,515 last year; showing a falling off of 5,390,618 bushels. The exports this season aggregate 2,230,102 bushels against 5,489,981 bushels in 1874, and the collections from the opening of navigation, May 18th, to the 31st, aggregated $51,530 97, against $155,214 13 last year. The number of boats cleared is less than one-third of the fleet cleared during the first month of 1874.

Dr. Redfield, the well known Southern correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, whose political tendencies lean strongly toward "Liberalism," writes that the Republican party in Georgia is "utterly dead and buried." Intimidation, he says, has done its work. The negroes have a harder time than before the passage of the Civil Rights law, that measure having inflamed the Southern mind and excited greater hostility than ever against them. He gives a number of illustrations of the illiberal and cruel spirit which prevails, and adds: "As to the equal rights we hear so much about, there is none of it down here, never has been and never will be." So, too, the special traveling correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, writing to that paper from Alabama, says, in its issue of Tuesday: "There yet lingers a violent fire-eating sentiment, * * and whoever comes here looking for repentant rebels as the fruits of reconstruction, will find no fruit of that sort hereabouts, nor the least promise thereof. They who fought for the Confederacy are proud of it. Their children refer to it with pride, and both will cherish till the last the memory of their soldiers as patriots, and of their fallen as of those who died for their people's sake." Following so closely upon the generous sentiments expressed throughout the entire North on Decoration Day, with respect to those who fought for a wrong cause, these statements of cautious and unbiassed men are of more than ordinary significance. The time for dieting the country on mush and magnanimity has, evidently, not yet come.

Governor Weston, of New Hampshire is straining at a "Natt." The action of himself and Council in giving certificates to Priest and Proctor, men who were not elected by the people, has raised such a cry of indignation about their ears that they fear to carry out the scheme they had concocted. Beyond question the Republicans will organize the House to-day, and as vacancies in the Senate can only be filled by the House of Representatives, they will, at the proper time, ignore Priest and Proctor and proceed to fill the vacancies by electing Messrs. Todd and Head, the Republican candidates. The result of this action will be that New Hampshire will have a Senate composed of fourteen members, instead of twelve, as the Constitution prescribes. Possibly the seven Democrats will organize a Senate for themselves, when the seven Republicans will do the same thing. If so, the question will arise as to the qualifications of the double representation for the disputed districts, and the presumption is that the matter will by legal process be brought before the Superior Court for settlement, which is precisely what the Republicans desire. Notwithstanding that the court is composed of two Democratic and one Republican judge, the utmost confidence is felt in their decision by the Republicans, as the action of the Governor and Council was not only clearly unconstitutional, but in direct conflict with an opinion given by one of the present Democratic judges less than two years ago, in the Pike-Bell case. The probabilities are that a peaceable settlement will finally be reached, and that the strictly legal ground held by the Republicans will be vindicated and maintained.

The United States Board to test iron, steel, etc., appointed in accordance with an act of Congress, has assumed, as a part of its work, the investigation of the methods and effects of abrasion and wear of metals in engineering and mechanical operations. The committee is anxious for such information as may enable it to compile a statement of the mode of deformation, the rapidity of abrasion and the laws governing wear in any important typical or exceptional cases. The executive officers of all lines of railway may render valuable aid by furnishing statements of the wear of rails per ton of transportation, specifying the original weight and the character of the rail, the total amount of transportation, the length of time occupied, and stating whether the rail finally broke or was removed. Specimens of rails remarkable either for endurance or for a lack of this quality will be of use in assisting in the determination of the properties which most affect the value of the material under the stated conditions of use. Similar statistics and information in regard to the wear of wheels, axles and other parts of rolling stock and machinery will be equally valuable. The wear of journals is an important branch of this subject. The nature of the lubricant is an essential element and the method and frequency of application and the quantity used should be given. The wear of tools, under the various conditions of workshop practice, is another subject of investigation. Weighing the tools carefully before and after use, and weighing the amount of metal removed, will, the committee states, be the rate of abrasion. This information should be sent to R. B. Thurston, Chairman of the Commission, at the Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, New Jersey.

Thomas Jefferson, Francis Eppes."

RECEPTION OF THE TICKET.

Opinions of the Press in This and Neighboring States.

[From the West Chester Republican.]

There were no other names presented to the Convention in connection with this office. In these ambitious times, when men are constantly wrestling with each other for places of honor and distinction, this fact can only be explained upon the ground that the administration of Governor Hartranft has been thoroughly acceptable to his party. The unanimity of his present nomination is also in striking contrast with his nomination and subsequent election three years ago. No man ever entered upon the discharge of the duties of Chief Magistrate of this great Commonwealth, under such a deep cloud of suspicion, or with fewer real substantial friends, than did General Hartranft in 1873. We confess to a disposition, even now, to criticise his administration as sharply as any one, but after casting our eyes through the horoscope of the past three years, frankly confess that, with but few minor exceptions, we can discover nothing with which we could fairly take issue. Our political opponents are equally at a loss for material out of which to construct a platform of opposition, but are reluctantly compelled to permit its classification among the most successful administrations within the history of the Commonwealth. Hon. Henry Rawle, of Erie, was nominated for State Treasurer upon the second ballot. We are especially gratified with this nomination. It is in keeping with the demands made by the rank and file of the party, and will prove a tower of strength in the coming canvass.

[From the Hollidaysburg Register.]

Governor Hartranft's nomination was a foregone conclusion. He has made an excellent and unexceptionable Chief executive, honest and capable, upon whom the breath of suspicion never has been uttered, and the flattering testimonial, never before accorded a Pennsylvania Governor, of a unanimous renomination, was merited, and he will be supported by many who opposed his first election on account of the slanders of the opposition. On the second ballot, Mr. Rawle was nominated for Treasurer, and although heretofore not much known out of his own county, he bears the reputation of a competent and honest man. The platform utters no uncertain sound. It is straightforward, plain and practical—the expression of the will of the party. And it was the proper time and proper occasion, to speak out boldly on the unwritten law of the country. No good Republican will vote for the third election of any man, no matter how patriotic or meritorious he may be—so that settles the bugbear of the third term.

[From the Warren Mail.]

Our ticket is one of the best the State ever supported. Governor Hartranft has lived down all the slanders of his enemies, and proved himself an Executive of superior ability, fidelity and usefulness. He served his people very acceptably in the filed when brave and true men were needed at the front, and his services have been equally valuable in civil life. Now then let us do our duty with equal fidelity and re-elect him by a triumphant majority. For State Treasurer there was a generous rivalry between worthy candidates, terminating very properly in favor of the West after taking the Governor from the East. Mayor Henry Rawle, of Erie, is one of the most substantial men of that substantial county. He is largely identified with the business interests of the West. He knows the wants of the people and have the practical good sense and wise discretion necessary to serve the people ably and successfully.

[From the Bucks County Intelligencer.]

We have had no better Executive for a generation. We shall do well in retaining for another term a Governor who has been so generally satisfactory and acceptable. The Republicans who doubted him three years ago will heartily support him now, and his vote next November will show how well he stands in the public estimation. The second place on the ticket, for State Treasurer, was given to Henry Rawle, of Erie. This gentleman was not the first choice of many Republicans in Eastern Pennsylvania, but they will none the less cheerfully support him.

[From the Washington Reporter.]

The Republican State Convention which assembled at Lancaster on Wednesday last, performed its work with promptness and with the utmost fidelity, as well to the organization it represented as to the interests of the whole people of the Commonwealth. The ticket it placed in nomination is one that on the score of character and qualification challenges the respect and confidence of honest men of all parties, and bids defiance to all the assaults of the opposition. The declaration of principles put forth will commend itself to the sober judgment of all good citizens who have the welfare and highest interests of the country at heart.

[From the Huntingdon Globe.]

It is a strong ticket and one that will command the earnest support of all true Republicans. In the language of the Philadelphia Times, bitterly as it hates the party and hard as it will labor to defeat the ticket, yet it admits that "John F. Hartranft and Henry Rawle are blameless enough to brave the assaults of the campaign."

[From the Columbia Courant.]

The ticket nominated and the resolutions adopted by the convention give the greatest satisfaction on all sides—not one dissenting voice.

[From the Allegheny Evening Mail.]

With a platform that reflects the sentiments of Republicans, and candidates so popular and suitable, it is fair to predict in the coming fall campaign a triumphant victory for the Republican party.

[From the Norristown Herald.]

The work of the convention was well done, and let us predict at this early stage of the campaign a majority of at least 25,000 for Hartranft and Rawle, the honored standard-bearers of the party.

[From the Berks and Schuylkill Journal.]

A sound, live-oak, iron-clad platform has been laid down, capable of withstanding the heaviest guns of the enemy. There is not a flaw in the entire structure—not a plank that is unsound, or a bolt or rivet out of place.

[From the Norristown Independent.]

We will march in solid column to the front, and achieve a victory which will terrify the Democracy, and encourage and gladden the hearts of Republicans from Maine to California.

[From the Newark (N.J.) Courier.]

Governor Hartranft was nominated by acclamation with a thunderous enthusiasm. During his term of office he has been an efficient and honorable public servant, and can call to his colors the whole united strength of the Republican party of Pennsylvania. Under his leadership there will be no reluctance or dissaffection. His case is one of the "selection of the fittest." Mr. Rawle, the candidate for Treasurer, is now the Mayor of the important city of Erie, and a man distinguished for all the qualities demanded by the office as well as personal popularity. The feeling pervading the convention was one of earnest purpose to win, and also of a deep feeling that their defeat would be a grave disaster to the Republican cause throughout the Union.

[From the Hartford (Conn.) Courant.]

This result was predicted, for General Hartranft has proved himself an honorable and efficient Executive. Those who believed in him three years ago and had courage to maintain their opinions in spite of "Liberal" denunciations, have had their faith more than justified by the result. The Hon. Henry Rawle is spoken of as a worthy man, well posted on financial affairs, and qualified for the office. That he is a strong candidate is to be inferred from the determination of the Pennsylvania Republicans to nominate none but strong men.

[From the New York Tribune.]

The nomination of Governor Hartranft was to be naturally expected. He has been on the whole a popular Governor, and his position in the party fairly entitled him to be its standard-bearer in the coming contest.

[From the Troy (N. Y.) Times.]

The Republicans of Pennsylvania have an excellent ticket and a satisfactory platform, and we are confident that with an ordinary effort they can secure the election of the one and the ratification of the other in November next.

[From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.]

Gov. Hartranft's renomination was discounted months ago, and there is nothing new to be said of it. He has turned out unexpectedly well, and ought to make a strong one. Of the candidate for State Treasurer, all that is known is that he is very wealthy, and that he is an estimable and high-toned gentleman.

[From the Hartford (Conn.) Republican.]

Governor Hartranft, of Pennsylvania, has been nominated for re-election, with Mayor Rawle, of Erie, for Treasurer. The ticket will undoubtedly be elected. The platform is a good one.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Our Next-Door Neighbor: A Winter in Mexico. By Gilbert Haven, Author of "Pilgrim's Wallet," &c. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York. For sale by S. A. Clarke & Co., Pittsburgh.

Readers of Bishop Haven's writings are so impressed with his bewitching style—a species of magnetism—that they become infected with his enthusiastic spirit. The work shows careful pains-taking, and there is no appearance of careless writing, but rather the reader is impressed with its thorough and exhaustive character. A number of chapters appeared in Harper's Monthly, elegantly illustrated, which were greatly admired. There is scarcely anything overlooked bearing upon the religious, civil, social and historical features of Mexico. Coupled with this valuable information, the Bishop weaves his personal experience and observations in such graceful language that it captivates the reader. His views of grave questions, relating to the country's religious and political condition, are entitled to great weight. Bishop Haven's elegant and racy style renders all his writings very attractive, and his genial manner and persistence to know the truth, enabled him to overcome obstacles, and the information secured adds greatly to the value of the book. It is well illustrated, and the book throughout is an honor to the publishers.

Bertha's Engagement. By Mrs. Ann S. Stephens. Published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia. For sale by W. A. Gildenfenney & Co., Pittsburgh.

The author of "Fashion and Famine," "Mary Derwent," &c., has won much distinction as a writer of fiction. This novel is thought to be equal to her other works. "Bertha's Engagement" is issued in a large duodecimo volume, at the low price of $1 75 in cloth, or $1 50 paper cover. All of Mrs. Ann S. Stephens' books, twenty-two in all, are put up in sets, each set in a neat box, and are bound in morocco cloth, in different colors, in elegant and durable style, with new and beautifully designed backs, in full gilt, price $38 50 a set, and are published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, No. 306 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa., who will send a set to any one, to any place, per express, freight paid, on receipt of price.

Leisure-Day Rhymes. By John Godfrey Saxe. Published by James R. Osgood & Co., Boston. For sale by R. S. Davis & Co., Pittsburgh.

Thousands will welcome the publication of this volume, as Mr. Saxe has long been a favorite of the people, as his rhymes are of a popular cast. The poems are short and varied, and ought to meet with ready sale for this and other reasons. Over one-fourth of the collection is entitled "Leisure-day Rhymes." Fully one-half is denominated "Fable and Fairy Tales," and the remainder of the book is "Translations and Paraphrases," and "Epigrams." Some of these poems are delicious in sentiment, and many of them have a vein of humor, that give them edge and power. The volume is nicely robed with green satin cloth and gold lettered.

The Satires of A. Persius Flaccus. Edited by B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph. D., LL.D., Professor of Greek in the University of Virginia. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York. For sale by S. A. Clarke & Co., Pittsburgh.

Much importance is attached to this volume from the fact that it treats of a subject possessing peculiar interest to the student. The author has sought to make Persius not distasteful to the general student, but render it more attractive. The notes are very full, as the obscurity of the Satires required that they should be. Classic scholars will find much in this volume to enjoy.

A Short History of the English People. By J. R. Green, M. A., Examiner in the School of Modern History, Oxford. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York. For sale by S. A. Clarke & Co., Pittsburgh.

We have here embodied a history of the English people, and not of the kingly governments or conquests. It developes the social and intellectual progress of the people, and the English constitutional system, and groups together the prominent points and characters in the history of the nation covering a period of fifteen hundred years. It is surprising how much valuable matter is crowded into this book, and yet there is a good degree of fulness in the narrative of the more important events. The author has performed a valuable service to literature, and has shown rare talents for the work. The index is very full, and the authorities he cites, accompanying each section, will be valued highly by the reader. The period described when our war of the Revolution occurred, is written in fine temper and gives "much in little." It is the kind of a book that ought to be in every library, and belongs to that class that never loses its value, as a source of interest and as a mine of knowledge.

Little Classics—Heroism. Edited by Rossiter Johnson. Published by James R. Osgood & Co., Boston. For sale by R. S. Davis & Co., Pittsburgh.

This is the eleventh volume of this delightful series and contains six charming stories, illustrative of "Heroism." We have commended "Little Classics" previously on the ground of pure merit, and repeat that they are fit companions for travel or a leisure hour.

Safely Married. A Novel. By the author of "Caste," &c. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York. For sale by S. A. Clarke & Co., Pittsburgh.

We substitute an English estimate of this story for our view of its merits. An excellent novel, very well worth reading. The story is worked out with clearness.

Mr. Vaughan's Heir. A novel. By Frank Lee Benedict, author of "My Daughter Elinor," etc. Published by Harpers. For sale by S. A. Clarke & Co.

Mr. Benedict has attained a fine reputation as an American novelist, his style being vivacious, highly dramatic and natural. Some of his warmest admirers, however, think that this novel is not equal to his previous works, and the characters lack unity. It contains some fine pictures of old and new world life, opening on the lake at Geneva, thence to Italy, and leaves most of the characters in Pennsylvania. As a writer he gives promise of a bright career, but it would be well for him to write less hurriedly.

What Young People Should Know. By Prof. Burt G. Wilder. Published by Estes & Lauriat, Boston. For sale by R. S. Davis & Co., Pittsburgh.

Very many will regard this book of a class that young people should not read, as it treats upon subjects of the most delicate character. The frank announcement of both author and publishers, that the book is in no sense a medical work, and intended to include only those things which mostly concern young married persons of both sexes, is worthy of consideration. It was prepared for the benefit of students and unprofessional readers. It is, however, in many respects, objectionable, at least when the book is placed in the hands of very young people and used for purposes not intended. Th's class, it is true, might not, for the same reasons, read any work on physiology or anatomy. The book is prepared in plain and straightforward language, and there does not seem to be an effort to arouse sensuality of any kind. Aside from all other considerations it possesses much value on the score of scientific merit.

The Adventures of the Chevalier De La Salle and His Companions. By John S. C. Abbott. Published by Dodd & Mead, New York. For sale by S. A. Clarke & Co., Pittsburgh.

Among the series of "American Pioneers and Patriots," this volume will stand pre-eminent. It portrays in graphic language the explorations of the prairies, forests, lakes and rivers of the new world, by La Salle and his companions, and their interviews with the savage tribes, two hundred years ago. Mr. Abbott has used the materials with consummate skill and given the book all the charm of romance. We take pleasure in commending this volume to young people.

The Story of Valentine and His Brother. By Mrs. Oliphant, author of "For Love and Life," etc. Published by Harper & Brothers. For sale by S. A. Clarke & Co.

The author has enjoyed a fine reputation as a writer of fiction, but she may fail to maintain her hold upon the public mind, by writing too much and being too hasty. This is a pleasant story, high toned, and some of the characters are finely drawn. For sale also by R. S. Davis & Co., of this city.

Miss Rovel. By Victor Cherbuliez, author of "The Romance of an Honest Woman," etc. Published by Estes & Lauriat, Boston. For sale by R. S. Davis & Co., Pittsburgh.

This is a bright and vivacious love story, picturing a romping girl with black eyes and yellow hair, who married her guardian. It has the flavor of such love matches, and is full of pretty perplexities of plot. The book is robed in a dainty paper cover.

Half Hour Recreations in Popular Science. Dana Estes, editor. No. 15. The Sun and the Earth. By Prof. Balfour Stewart, F. R. S. Force Electrically Exhibited. By J. W. Phelps. Half Hour Recreations in Natural History. Part 7 "Insects of the Field." By A. S. Packard, Jr.

These serial publications issued by Estes & Lauriat, Boston, and for sale by R. S. Davis & Co., of this city, are valuable and instructive, and fully up to the advanced views of the day.

Heart of Midlothian. By Sir Walter Scott. Published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia. For sale by W. A. Gildenfenny & Co., Pittsburgh. Price 25 cents.

This volume belongs to the cheap edition of Waverly Novels.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Corcoran is now possessor of Senator Sumner's mansion, for which he has sighed so long, and has added it to his Arlington Hotel.

The young ladies of the "Adams School," at Boston, have decided not to wear muslin dresses at their July graduating exercises, but to appear in plain cambric or some other inexpensive fabric suitable for subsequent wear. They are to be highly commended, and it would be admirable were all other school girls to follow their example.

There is no truth in the report that General Sheridan, General Custer, the Secretary of War and other prominent officials, with an escort of fifteen hundred cavalry, are about to visit the Yellowstone Fork this summer on a pleasure trip. Secretary Belknap, with Senator Allison and a few other gentlemen, will visit several military posts in the West this summer, and during their absence will make, at their expense, a visit of the Yellowstone. Neither General Sheridan nor General Custer will accompany the expedition.

Here is a good story at General Butler's expense: Judge Hoar has a very intelligent dog, who seems as alive to matters of political import as any biped with a soul. "Which would you prefer," said the Judge, addressing the dog, "to see General Butler elected Governor, or to be shot?" The dog replied by falling suddenly to the ground, apparently lifeless and limp. No amount of coaxing could arouse in the canine any seeming movement denoting life until assured that Butler was "defeated," when he would spring to his feet and frisk around, barking for joy.

The ingenious French have contrived a novel way to impress the barbaric mind. M. de Brazza, who has charge of the expediton to Senegal, carries an electric battery in his pocket communicating with two rings on his hand and with other apparatus scattered about his person. When he shakes hands with a savage chief, that chief will be very much astonished, for an electric shock will run up his arm and he will see lightning playing about the head of his visitor. Naturally he will think he is being interviewed by the Devil, and he will be ready to consent to anything in order to get away.

The Folly of Neglect.

It is the height of folly to neglect precautionary measures for the preservation of health, when they become necessary in consequence of hurtful influences. Among these influences are the unavoidable inhalation of malarious or fetid air, exposure in bad weather, unhealthy occupations and habitual late hours, all of which tend to produce disease. To guard against their effects a vigorous and regular discharge of the bodily functions should be kept up. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the tonic, of all others, best calculated to perpetuate bodily vigor and regularity. The experience of denizens of unhealty localities, outdoor laborers, employees in manufactories and late workers of all kinds, has shown that a wineglassful of this pleasant safeguard taken at regular intervals imparts an amount of stamina and power of resistance to disease afforded by no other protective and remedial agent. The nervous, the weak and the dyspeptic derive incalculable benefit from its use, and pronounce it the best preparation of its class.

THE FASHIONS. All Coats are worn longer. For Dress the style is Double Breast of English origin though improved by American artists. Pantaloons are worn with less spring and shaped to the body by shrinking and pressing. In the matter of Pants we go upon the idea that there is room for much skill to be displayed in improving the figure. Vests are only changed in lappels and corners, according to style of person to wear the garment.

SUMMER RESORTS.

LAKE VIEW Summer Resort.
This place is situated on the banks of Lake Erie, about 1½ miles from the Lake Shore Depot, at NORTHEAST, PA. It offers more than ordinary inducements to the pleasure-seeking public. Fronting the Lake, it presents an unobstructed view of its waters and floating commerce for many miles. A pier has been built during the winter for the accommodation of Steam and Sailing Yachts, and the House enlarged to four times its former capacity. A fine beach for surf and still bathing, fishing and rowing, with a Lawn and Grove attached. Upon the Property are several "Calcic Chalybeate Mineral Springs," the waters of which have been analyzed by Prof. S. Dana Hayes, of Boston, and found to contain alum and iron in solution, sulphate of potash, sulphate of soda, chloride of sodium, sulphate of lime, sulphate of magnesia, sulphate of alumina and sulphate of protoxide of iron. He recommends the water as especially useful in cases of skin, liver, kidney and bladder diseases, acting as a tonic and alterative medicinal agent. The table will be supplied with butter, milk and cream from our own dairy, vegetables and fruits from our garden. Laundry attached. It is quite important that Rooms for Families should be secured in advance, as many have already been engaged. Those applying will please state the time they will want to take the Rooms. Guests will receive every attention to make their stay beneficial and agreeable. Day Board, $2 00. Season Boarders $8 00 to $10 00 per week; Children according to age. FINANCE AND TRADE.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, June 2, 1875.

The reports of the condition of general business as received from various sources are encouraging, as showing a gradual and sure revival of industry in almost all departments. Especially is this so of the eastern portion of this State, for the impression is general that this strike in the anthracite coal regions is about over for the present. In the Shamokin regions all the mines are reported to be in operation, and resumption in the Schuylkill regions will not probably be many days behind. The same statements come from Mauch Chunk and Wyoming. Indeed, from all points where trouble has existed with the miners there comes the same encouraging assurance that the time for the resumption of mining is at hand. While the public have suffered little inconvenience from any lack of supply or advance in prices, operators open the year's business with bare docks and empty yards, thus affording a gratifying assurance of a steady market for months to come. The Ledger reports the total anthracite production for the week ending the 22d ult., 305,313 tons, and for the year to the same date 4,719,324 tons, against 6,528,201 to the same time last year, showing a decrease of 1,808,897 tons.

The quantity of coke and coal transported over the Pennsylvania Railroad for the week was 67,365 tons, and for the year 1,186,686 tons, of which 991,141 was coal and 205,555 coke. This embraces all the coal carried both east and west. At Port Richmond for the week ending 22d ult., there were receipts of 7,000 tons of coal, shipments of 3,700 tons, leaving but 4,000 tons on hand.

—The Attorney General of Georgia has given a written opinion that United States bonds are not taxable by the State.

—The bondholders of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad have filed a petition in the United States District Court at Memphis, for the confirmation of their foreclosure.

—Freights at Ottawa, Canada, for lumber to United States ports, are reported to be one-third lower than last year.

—The Bank of England has about 809 clerks. They usually enter at between 18 and 25 years of age. Their salary begins at about $400 of our currency. From this they advance, until by the time they are 41 or 44 they get $1,700 a year, after which they can ordinarily hope for no increase.

—The total valuation of railroad property in Missouri, as returned by the several railroad companies to the Auditor, is $19,860,141. The total valuation of the same roads, as returned by the several county courts, is $54,849,312, a difference of $34,998,171.

—The Treasury Department will sell $2,000,000 in gold during June—$500,000 on each Thursday of the month.

—The annual report of the insurance Commissioners of Massachusetts just issued shows that fifty-three fire and marine insurance companies were doing business in that State on the first of January. The returns, compared with those of the previous year, show an increase in assets of $344,396; income $609,817, and outstanding risks, $10,590,496. There was a decrease in losses paid of $1,058,117 and in expenditures of $964,210. There are now twenty-one joint stock insurance companies incorporated under the laws of the State. Since the previous report one mutual and five joint-stock companies made insolvent by the great fire in Boston have rendered their final accounts, showing that their losses amounted to $32,400,000.

GENERAL MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, WEDNESDAY, June 2, 1875.

The course of trade in wholesale mercantile circles to-day, was even and comparatively undisturbed. The grain and produce markets are still weak, although it is thought that bottom has been touched on prices for grain. We reduce our quotations on leading articles of produce, the only instance to the contrary being apples, which are somewhat advanced. Provisions are easy with a good jobbing trade at about former values. In groceries a quiet market has ruled at unchanged prices. Dry goods and general merchandise are steady with a moderate trade.

We take from the St. Louis Republican the following carefully prepared statistical estimate of position of the surpluses of the wheat crop at the present time:

The wheat crop of France for 1874 attained the extraordinary amount of 124,000,000 hectolitres, or at 60 pounds to the bushel, 455,700,000 bushels, and this amount has been authenticated by the Minister of Agriculture of that country. The deduction of the amount for all home consumptive purposes, leaves a surplus of 33,724,510 hectolitres, or 123,937,574 bushels. Russia had an average crop in 1874, and based on the average annual export for nine years—from 1864 to 1872 inclusive, it is estimated that that country would have from the crop of 1874 a surplus of 51,000,000 bushels. Hungary had a full average crop in 1874, and it is estimated would have a surplus for export of 12,000,000 to 20,000,000 bushels. Germany and Austria had a full average wheat crop in 1874. Italy, Portugal and Spain, it is stated, would have to import wheat moderately to supplement their home production. Switzerland always imports wheat, mainly the production of France, through the port of Marseilles. Belgium requires to import 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels. The wants of the United Kingdom are approximately indicated by the following statement found in the New York Produce Weekly of May 14, 1875:

	1874-5. Qrs.	1873-4. Qrs.
Home crop	13,750,000	8,239,004
Del. Sept. 1 to March 27	7,260,380	6,419,828
To be del'd March 27 to Aug. 31	6,489,620	2,783,176
Import Sept. 1 to March 27	5,557,875	6,862,367
Home delivery same time	7,260,380	6,419,828
Total supply Sept. 1 to March 27	12,872,225	13,282,182
Annual consumption in United Kingdom	22,000,000	22,000,000
To be supplied March 27 to August 31	9,187,745	8,717,815
Deduct home crop to be delivered March 1 to August 31	6,489,620	2,783,176
To be supplied from imports March 27 to August 31	2,698,125	5,934,639
Deduct wheat and flour in transit to March 31	1,506,175	1,189,310
To be supplied from imports March 27 to August 31	1,191,950	4,745,625
Equal in bushels to	9,535,600	37,965,032

"With the crop of the United States," says the Produce Weekly, "estimated at 300,000,000 bushels for 1874, and 200,000,000 consumption, based on an estimated population of 43,397,788 (the consumption of 1873 reckoned on a population of 42,133,772, is stated at 190,118,661 bushels) a surplus would be left for export of 100,000,000 bushels, September 1, 1874, of which about 47,331,272 bushels have been exported to May 14, leaving a still remaining surplus of 52,668,728 bushels." By these statements it is discerned that the four largest wheat producing countries have from their respective crops, deducting the estimated amounts for all their own consumptive purposes, the following surpluses:

	Bushels.
United States	100,000,000
France	123,937,574
Russia	51,000,000
Hungary	55,000,000
Total bushels	329,937,574

The visible supply of wheat in granary, at the principal points of accumulation at lake and seaboard ports, and in transit by rail, May 15, 1875, and as compared the same week in 1874-73, was:

	Bushels.
May 15, 1875	11,300,888
May 17, 1873	6,353,038

The United Kingdom is the great customer for the wheat of the country, and without this demand, the foreign exports of the country would not be more than 10 per cent. of the average annual exports as calculated for 16 years, or from 1859 to 1874 inclusive—which were 24,491,139 bushels, of which were exported to the United Kingdom 22,284,131 bushels, or about 90 per cent. annually of the average total foreign exports. By this may be clearly discovered the importance of England to the wheat growers of this country as a market for the surplus of our crops, and the proportion of the effect its wants will have upon the market value of the grain here. Take the present time for an example: The amount of the wheat of the crop of 1874 in this country estimated as a surplus over all consumptive demands here is stated above at 100,000,000 bushels; to May 14th inst. has been exported in round numbers say 48,000,000 bushels, of which the United Kingdom may be supposed to have taken nine tenths, and of the remainder of the surplus is estimated to require from March 27 to August 31, only 9,525,600 bushels. With the great proportion then, of the surplus in the country, and the near approach of the harvest of 1875, and the vast surpluses of the other great wheat producing countries, what may reasonably be inferred as to the present and future values of wheat.

The receipts of the leading articles of produce since our last are as follows:

Flour, bbls	2,487	Apples, bbls	277
Cheese, bxs	257	Corn, bus	7,338

Oats, bush	13,070	Butter, pkgs	76

The following are the receipts of the leading articles of produce for the past two weeks:

The quotations given in the following reports are prices realized in wholesale transactions, unless otherwise specified. On small sales, dealers will charge an advance. Sales of grain, unless stated to the contrary, are free of elevator:

Grain, Flour and Feed.

GRAIN—The grain market is very quiet under the influence of declining values. Receipts are slightly on the increase, having been 47,880 bushels for the past week. Wheat is beginning to move more freely; we note a sale of 1 car prime red winter at $1 30. We quote choice Kentucky and Michigan white winter wheat at $1 40@1 45 per bushel; Ohio and Illinois do $1 35@1 40; Ohio and Illinois amber $1 30@1 33; Ohio and Pennsylvania red winter $1 25@1 30; spring wheat is weak, No. 1 Chicago ruling at $1 18@1 20; No. 2 do, $1 05@1 10. Receipts for the past week were 6,085 bushels against 2,506 bushels the previous week. Corn is still weak and declining. We quote shelled at 80@81c per bushel for yellow; 79@80c for high mixed; 78@79c for low mixed and white. Ear 80@82c; lower; quotable at 78@82c. Receipts for the past week 11,903 bushels, against 16,877 bushels the previous week. Jobbing prices of corn and oats rule 3@5c above quotations.

FLOUR—There is a good trade, rather more active than last week, owing to a reduction of the prices of some of our leading dealers of 25c per barrel. Receipts 8,693 barrels for the week ending to-day. We note the arrival in St. Louis, of flour made from the wheat of 1875 coming from Georgia and Texas. We quote the wholesale prices of the local millers as follows: No. 1 white wheat flour at $7 50 ℔ bbl; No. 1 amber wheat do $6 80; red wheat flour $6 40; in sacks 30c off ℔ barrel. The Chicago Tribune has the following review of Monday's provision market in that city: "Hog products were less active and stronger but irregular. The market opened strong all round, but a steady advance was noted in the speculative articles under a good demand. Suddenly they broke, and declined amid intense excitement, then ruled steady. The drop seemed to be forced by heavy operators here, who were afraid that the market would go a point higher than consistent with a brisk outward movement. The receipts of hogs were moderate, and prices steady, while the arrivals of the month are some 55,000 head less than those of May, 1874. Our stocks of pork are large, but meats are in such light stock and have moved out so freely as to indicate that pork will be wanted later in the season to supply the place of meats. Hence prominent operators think there will be no difficulty in clearing up stocks, provided they are not held too high. Stocks of all kinds are worked round into strong hands, able to hold at whatever figures may be deemed prudent. Yesterday a good deal of the business done was in changing over, to provide for June deliveries on the morrow."

Groceries.

The market continues to rule quiet and materially unchanged. Sugars are steady, and coffees are easy, other standard groceries are unchanged and the market is rather devoid of interest. Prices-current are as follows:

Dry Goods.

While there has not been much that was new, to report in the dry goods trade here since last week, the market in the East has been weak and a marked decline has taken place in values of standard prints and sheetings. Wholesalers here have not reduced quotations as yet, but may be expected to do so by the close of the week. We quote as follows:

NEW YORK, June 2.—The jobbing branches are more active, but the package trade in cotton goods remain quiet, and woolen goods are moving slowly. Prints are generally quiet in first hands, but Garner's makes have sold fairly since their reduction in price. Regatta and Tournament shirting prints are reduced to 7½c. The Daily Bulletin says that two hundred and fifty cases of Germania and Scotia Mills beavers will be sold at auction Wednesday next.

Petroleum.

June 3—The crude petroleum market, eased off a little yesterday, and prices fell about 2½c per barrel. Refined was firm with a steady tone to the markets all around.

CRUDE—We quote United at wells at $1 25; Union do $1 20; outside lines $1 15; immediate shipment, $1 45. The sales were 20,500 barrels at Parkers, and 2,000 barrels at other points. The market at last reports was quiet but firm.

REFINED—There is a somewhat increased inquiry at current rates, and a steady feeling both to the Eastern markets and the trade in this city. We quote standard white on the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad at 9⅝@9¾c; on the Pennsylvania Railroad at 9½@9¾c. New York delivery rules at 13¾c spot; 13¾c for last half of June. OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, WEDNESDAY, June 2, 1875.

At the opening of the market this morning it was noticeable that there was a decidedly stronger feeling, and that all classes of live stock were in better demand, and prices a shade higher than those of last week.

The Market.

CATTLE.

From a circular before us we gather the following facts in relation to the live stock market for the week ending June 2, 1875. It will be seen that the number of cars of cattle that arrived here since our last report was 382. Of this amount 71 cars were held for sale in the yards, the balance being intended for the New York market. On Monday trade opened fair and as the reports from the East were favorable, the buyers that were in the market went to work and bought freely, prices advancing about 12½c on the common and good grades, while extra heavy cattle remained at about last week's prices.

At present the pens are pretty well cleaned out and there is a good demand, the Philadelphia buyers not having succeeded in getting as many as would supply their needs. We change our quotations this week as follows:

Extra beeves, graded steers, averaging from 1,400 to 1,500 ℔s	$7 00@7 25
Choice beeves, smooth well fattened, 1,300 to 1,400 ℔s	6 87@7 12
Choice beeves, fine formed and fat, 1,150 to 1,300 ℔s	6 37@6 75
Butchers' stock and medium grades	5 87@6 37
Calves	5 00@5 50

HOGS.

There were about as many hogs on the market this week as there were last week, but the demand was not so good and prices have declined on the best grades fully 50c per 100 ℔s, and on York grades about 40c per 100 ℔s. It looks now as though prices had touched bottom for the present, but should the weather continue very warm, it may have the effect of reducing them still lower. Below we give the closing prices of to-day:

Philadelphias	$8 00@8 10
Baltimores	7 35
Heavy Yorkers	7 20
Light Yorkers	7 00@7 12½

SHEEP.

The run of sheep was very light, only 57 loads, and prices advanced from 25c to 37½c on last week's figures. The demand was good on account of the markets in the East being very much better on last Monday than they have been for some time. Prospects look fair for next week at the following figures:

Good to extra, 100 to 105 ℔s	$5 62@5 75
Fair to good, 80 to 90 ℔s	4 75@5 25
Common, 70 to 80 ℔s	4 00@4 50

WOOL.

Boston.

BOSTON, June 2.—Wool in fair demand at steady prices. As the new clip is near at hand manufacturers are buying cautiously. The only kinds of wool really wanted are medium grades and combing and delaine fleeces; more inquiry for fine Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces, and there is a prospect that stocks of this description will soon disappear. Pennsylvania and Ohio fleeces 5 @55c, including choice double extra fleeces at 52½@53c; Wisconsin and Michigan fleeces 48@52½c; combing and delaine selections 55@66c; new Kentucky combing 48@50c.

MONONGAHELA—3 feet 5 inches and falling.

Boats Advertised for This Day.

Brownsville and Geneva.....8 A. M. and 4 P. M.

THE marks last evening indicated three feet five inches and falling slowly. The weather during the day was cloudy but very warm. The only boat doing business at the lower landing was the Mallie Ragon which left for Wheeling.

CAPTAIN I. R. WHITAKER is in St. Louis.

THE John Means was repairing boilers at New Albany.

THE Charles Morgan was aground at Portland Bar yesterday.

THE latest news from the Clara Scott is that she cannot be raised.

THE Mallie Ragon left on time with about all the freight she wanted.

THE H. S. Turner and Tarascon grounded six hours at Portland Bar.

CAPTAIN TOM BOLTS is lying seriously ill at his residence in Louisville.

THE steamer Ben Franklin has entered the Cincinnati and Madison trade.

THE Fannie Tatum is prospecting at St. Louis for another trip up the Ohio.

THE Granger reports the sinking of a barge containg 100 cords of wood in Salt river, Sunday.

MORRIS BOLAND, mate of the Josie, died at Dubuque last Friday, aged twenty-three years.

THE Mail Line Company between Cincinnati and Louisville is about building a new packet.

COMMANDER R. C. GRAY arrived from St. Louis yesterday. He looks extremely well after his Southern trip.

CAPTAIN REES PRITCHARD, an old and popular steamboatman, has gone into a general produce business at Little Rock.

LIEUTENANT C. H. ROCKWELL relieves Captain J. Fyffe, and will hereafter have charge of the Fourteenth Light House district.

THERE is a flatboat bottom side up in the channel just above Preston's Hollow. Boats going down should pass it on the right.

THE Sioux City Journal of the 28th says that the river continues falling there. Nothing heard of the June rise for a couple of days.

THERE is no boat in port loading for either Cincinnati or St. Louis. The only one expected is the Exchange, which left Cincinnati yesterday. If the trade is not played out the boats are.

GLAD OF IT.—The travel on the slackwater is steadily increasing. This is as it should be. A trip to the headwaters of that stream is within the reach of all. The boats leave daily at 8 A. M. and 4 P. M.

THE Covington Dock Company, Monday launched a crane boat for Reynolds, Saulspaugh & Co. to be used in building the bridge at the foot of Home street. It is 90 feet long and 26 feet wide.

THE first voyage from New York of the new and magnificent Inman steamship City of Berlin was made in eight days, three hours and twenty-three minutes. This, for a new steamer, is a fine commencement.

THE paragraph that was published in some of the city papers that Captain Bailey, of the Whale, had a broken leg turns out to be false. As we took no stock in the report we have nothing to take back.

THE French steamers will probably continue sailing direct to Havre throughout the summer and not touch at Queenstown as was contemplated. This is the best line for those wishing to avoid crossing the channel and unnecessary railway traveling.

CAPTAIN DICK LIGHTBURNE says he will soon have his railroad running from Chicot to Pine Bluff, when he will crush all competition by river or rail for all points in Arkansas, Kansas, Indian Territory, even to the water's edge of the Pacific slope.

THE favorite steamer Granite State, Captain Kerr, takes her departure on Friday at 3 P. M. for Wheeling, Parkersburg and Portsmouth. This boat has unsurpassed accommodations, and is in charge of careful and attentive officers. Mr. R. H. Kerr will be found in the office.

A NEW iron hull snagboat for the Ohio river has been named E. A. Woodruff, after Lieutenant E. A. Woodruff, of the Engineer Corps, who, while in charge of the operations for the removal of the Red river raft, died of yellow fever at Shreveport, where he had remained to assist in nursing the sick during the pestilence that ravaged that town in 1874.

THE following towboats which left here on the late rise arrived at Cincinnati yesterday: J. A. Stone, A. J. Blackmore, Geo. Lysle, Coal Valley, Sampson No. 2, Lion, Sam Brown, Whale, N. J. Bigley, J. C. Risher, with coal. The following left for this city: Whale, Lysle, Risher, Tom Reese with empties. The Coal Valley and J. A. Stone left for Louisville.

CINCINNATI.—During the last low water two coal barges—one belonging to Bigley and another to Speer—got aground at Barrett's Landing, and when the next rise came it left them in a sunken condition. The Bigley barge has been unloaded, and laborers are now engaged in unloading the Speer barge. They carry the coal over 100 yards distance in wheelbarrows. The Speer barge, containing about 12,000 bushels coal, that was sunk at Waters' Landing by ice last winter, is now showing itself. It lies in good position and will be saved.

THE snagboat "O. G. Wagner," built for use on the Ouachita river, was named after Lieut. O. G. Wagner, of the Topographical Engineers who, while making a reconnoissance of the enemy's works to the left of Yorktown, was struck by a shell and dangerously wounded. It became necessary to amputate his left arm, from the effects of which he died a few days subsequently. We make this correction because the papers have generally stated that the boat was named after an engineer of the Navy, and as Lieut. Wagner was a Pennsylvanian, from our metropolitan city of Philadelphia. It is the least that we can do to preserve for his memory whatever honors have been bestowed on it in grateful appreciation of the free-will offering of his young life for his country in her hour of need.

YANKTON ITEMS.—The E. H. Durfee reached Bismarck Sunday, seven days out from Yankton.

The John M. Chambers is at Yankton, and will clear from there for Fort Benton to-day.

The Far West, of the Coulson Line, was expected at Yankton from above yesterday.

The river is still receding at this point, but a dispatch received by Commodore Coulson, of Yankton, from Bismarck, last Monday, says the June rise has reached there. We may look for it here about next Sunday.

The steamer Silver Lake is still on the tramways at Yankton. She has been slipped down to the water's edge, but is prevented from getting into the river by the large quantity of mud which has collected at the foot of the stocks. They will be obliged to wait for the June rise to float her off.

A Bismarck dispatch of the 22d says: The Josephine has been detained for the Yellowstone expedition. Colonel Grant and other parties forming the expedition will arrive to-night and will probably leave Sunday. The C. W. Mead left for Benton yesterday. The Key West will be the next boat for Carroll, leaving Wednesday.

Meeting of the Committee — The Pay Roll for May—Routine Business.

A regular meeting of the Police Committee was held last evening, Mr. Thompson in the chair.

Mayor McCarthy reported policemen who had resigned and had been dropped since last meeting, and Clerk Hartzell reported the business of the office for May, as already published. Accepted.

The pay rolls, amounting to $16,346 58, for the month of May, were presented for approval, when Mr. Braun objected to an item of $63 for services for Mr. John Davis, clerk to the Chief of Police.

After some discussion the pay roll was approved.

Mr. Braun, from a special committee, reported that the extension of the police telegraph wire to the Thirty-sixth ward station-house had been made at a cost of $129. Report received and the bill was ordered to be paid.

Mr. Braun moved that the sub-committee on clothing be directed, in conjunction with the Chief of Police, to provide summer clothing for the force.

Mr. Foley offered a resolution providing that the dress during the summer shall consist of blouse, pantaloons and black felt hat, and that the Controller be authorized to advertise for proposals for furnishing the same. Referred to the sub-committee, in conjunction with the Chief, with power to act.

THE BUENA VISTA RIOTS.

Commonwealth Against Charles H. Armstrong and Fred. Guescetti.

TESTIMONY FOR THE DEFENSE.

The following is the evidence for the defense in the case of "The Commonwealth vs. Charles H. Armstrong and Fred. Guescetti," lately tried in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Westmoreland county, on an indictment for "aggravated riot" in connection with the mining troubles at Mr. Armstrong's works, which resulted in the killing of three of his employees:

John Y. Woods sworn—Direct examination by Mr. Laird: I was the District Attorney last October; on the 22d day of October last Mr. Armstrong came to my office; I was then the District Attorney; he seemed to be very much excited: he told me at that time that his miners had been on a strike; that he had discharged them; that a day or two before some of his goods had been broken open by some of them; and that he desired to make an information against four of the leaders; that he had entered into a contract with some person and had employed another set of men; I am not sure whether he said the miners he was then employing were Italians or not, but he told me then that he desired the Sheriff to go over to his works; that he was afraid that his property might be burned; that he was afraid of his own life, and he thought that they might injure some of his bosses or employees that would go to work; I met him first on the street and I then went up to my office to see 'Squire Marsh, a justice of the peace, then in my office; he was not there and I came down immediately to Sheriff Kilgore. Mr. Armstrong is a little difficult to be understood to strangers not accustomed to hear him, and I did the most of the talking for Mr. Armstrong; I told the Sheriff how he apprehended danger, and so forth, and that he desired the Sheriff to go over to the works; after I had explained the matter, the Sheriff was willing to go but he could not go right away, and we then said he should deputize Levi Cline, and he agreed to that; then the Sheriff wanted I should go with him and see his counsel; we went down and saw his attorney; told him in my presence that he was not bound to go at every man's call to protect a man's property. The Sheriff then declined absolutely to do anything for Mr. Armstrong, either to go himself or to send a deputy. Mr. Armstrong and myself then went to another attorney, and we concluded we would make an affidavit setting forth these facts and apply to the Court. My impression is, although I am not sure, that there was court on the day he was there—the 22d. At all events, Mr. Armstrong went away on the twelve o'clock train; the 22d was on Thursday; by the direction of Mr. Foster and myself Mr. Armstrong came out the next morning and made this affidavit; I wrote the affidavit myself and Mr. Armstrong was qualified to it, and a rule was then granted on the Sheriff by the Court to show cause why he should not comply with the petition of the plaintiff. When he went away on the morning of the 23d, at my suggestion, he took Levi Cline with him; Mr. Cline was Constable in Ludwick Borough; he was taken, not as Deputy Sheriff, but on my suggestion and at my request that he should go over there and try and keep the peace; I was District Attorney at the time; the Sheriff was aware of the fact, I think, that I was; I was acting as District Attorney, and I tried to do the best I could to give the best possible advice Mr. Armstrong was excited when he came to me—very much excited, and I though he was very much excited that day before he went away; I do not know that he apprehended danger, but that is what I believed, however, that he did; I presented his application to Court as District Attorney; I further telegraphed to Mr. Armstrong, on Monday morning I think it was, I am not sure of the date, what the Court had indicated; I think likely Mr. Armstrong has the dispatch; my recollection is that I telegraphed him on Monday, the 26th, the day the Italians went there, that the Court had indicated to the Sheriff something about his duty as a peace officer, but that they had no power to enforce it at that time, and that he would be responsible himself; I then added to the foot of the telegram that I felt that the Sheriff would do nothing, or something of that kind; I signed my name, I think, to the dispatch as District Attorney. [Paper handed witness.] This is the dispatch I sent: I think it is dated the 24th here; I may be mistaken in the date of it; I thought it was Monday morning the 26th, but this is dated the 24th; that would be on Saturday; after the Court had indicated to the Sheriff what his bounden duty was as an officer to keep the peace, I left the court house immediately and telegraphed to Mr. Armstrong, in accordance with an arrangement to let him know what was to be done; on the next Tuesday, the 27th, I understood the Sheriff deputized Mr. Cline.

Cross-examination by District Attorney Harvey—I have the information before me that Mr. Armstrong made on the 22d of October against three or four parties; the information is to the effect that the said parties had riotously and tumultuously assembled together and had taken possession of certain property of the deponent; that they had made threats to kill deponent and others in his employ, and that the deponent was afraid that the parties would carry their threats into execution and do him or the men in his employ great bodily harm. It is sworn and subscribed to on the 22d of October. I fix the date of his coming out here by this information; the information was made that same morning; the names of the parties charged are Edward B. Campbell, G. W. Stivison and Joseph Birshell; the parties were arrested; at the time Mr. Cline went over he had a warrant, but as a part of discretion he did not make the arrests on the day it was issued, and he was not to make any arrests until after the Sheriff would send a posse over; they were not arrested until some time after; I do not know that they were arrested and thrown into jail here—I heard so; they have not been tried here; on the day there were to have a hearing Mr. Armstrong telegraphed me in the morning that it was impossible for him to be here, that they were having some trouble among the Italian miners; the hearing was to be before 'Squire Marsh; I demanded a continuance of the case, but the Justice of the Peace discharged them because no one appeared against them. I did not know that there was some arrangement by which no person was to appear against them—this is the first time I have heard of it; I did not know that they were taken out of jail and that it was arranged that Mr. Armstrong should not appear against them so that they could vote on the day of the election; if they were, it was not at the request of the District Attorney or his counsel; I do not know why they were taken out; the papers show that they were bailed out and that they were discharged because Mr. Armstrong could not appear against them; I tried to do everything in my power to protect Mr. Armstrong; these men were never tried for the offense sworn to by Mr. Armstrong, because there was no prosecutor; the prosecutor had telegraphed me that he could not appear; I demanded a continuance and showed the telegram before the Justice, but the defendants appeared by counsel and were discharged; I cannot give the date that Mr. Armstrong was to appear here and was unable to get here on account of important business; I do not know what that important business was he had up at Armstrong station; I am not under the employ of Mr. Armstrong, and I do not know what he was there for; I find here by this paper that the date on which these defendants were discharged was the 4th of November, 1874; that was after the election; I do not know whether the telegram from Mr. Armstrong was from Pittsburgh or from Armstrong station; I think these men were bailed out of jail the second day after they were arrested—I do not know that; I have only heard it.

J. F. Power, sworn—Direct examination by Mr. Laird: I live in Rostraver township, Westmoreland county, about a mile and a half or a mile and three quarters from Webster; Webster is on the Monongahela river; from Armstrong's works I live in a straight line about seven miles—we call it eight miles by the road; on the Saturday before the Italians landed there, I started after dinner for West Newton for a load of barrels; West Newton is four miles from my house; after I had left home about a quarter or half a mile two men overtook me and asked to ride; one of the two men had a very large revolver; I did not notice any revolver only on the one; they were going to Buena Vista; I went about half a mile further and three more men got in armed with muskets; I asked them where they were going and they said they were going down to Buena Vista to drive off the damned Italians, that they expected they would land there on Saturday; there were five men altogether; I can hardly tell you what kind of looking men they were—about as rough as men could look; they went with me down to pretty near West Newton where I struck the river, and two of them got out there; about two hundred yards further two more of them got out; I was across the river in West Newton and I could see them go down on the opposite side to Buena Vista; they had their arms with them; we had considerable talk on the matter and I tried to coax them to go home; the fifth man I persuaded to go back, and the others went on; I did not know any of these men by name; I knew them by sight; they were miners and all Englishmen; all of them belonged to Webster, and probably all belonged to the Union League; that is a league of miners; it is not a political league at all; they were sent by the Union League they said; I cannot say what day they said they had a meeting previous to that, but it was a very short time; they spoke very hard of Mr. Armstrong; they threatened him about as they did the Italians; they said they were going to drive the Italians off dead or alive; the reason they gave for that was that they were working for less wages, and they opposed the introduction of Italian labor into this country—they would not agree to that. The country in that neighborhood has become a good deal afraid of these men for some time; there had been a good deal of stealing; I lost a lot of sheep, I think about seventeen head; I bought a lot of sheep of Widow McMahon, and between the time they were bought and noon three of them were killed; I went after them and found three short and their pelts lying near; I lost a quarter or two of beef out of the spring house; a great many smoke houses and spring houses were opened and the people lost all their bacon; from what I know of what was going on there I thought Mr. Armstrong's life was not safe anywhere near his works.

To Mr. Foster—These men were headed from Webster towards the Youghiogheny river; when the three men got into my wagon the first men asked them where the balance was—that there was more to come—and one of them said that Dan was to meet them with the rest at the Monongahela bridge; they replied that if they had known that they would not have come that way, but that they had promised to meet him and would not disappoint him; they were to strike across from the Monongahela to Buena Vista; the fellow they called Dan—I don't know his name—was to take charge of the men and lead the other gang to Buena Vista; I did not ascertain how many men were in the other squad; this was the Saturday before the Italians came; they said they were to land there on Saturday; it might have been one o'clock when these men were with me—not later than that, I guess; it was right after dinner.

Cross-examination by District Attorney Harvey—These men did not say anything about the Italians being armed at all; I never heard of anything of the kind around in that neighborhood that the Italians were to come armed. I saw these old miners running around in the neighborhood a good deal; I saw them every few days; I never saw them steal from me but they told me they would; they wanted me to give them flour and meat, and they told me if I did not they would take it of me; I think these miners were working for Blackmore; I am not in the coal business myself; I am a farmer; I have no interest in any coal fields that are being worked.

Thomas Roley sworn—Direct examination by Mr. Laird: In October and November, 1874, I was at Armstrong's station in the capacity of clerk in the store and agent for the railroad company; I was there when these men quit working for Mr. Armstrong; he then had in the neighborhood of 125 or 150 men employed; he was paying them seventy cents a ton; that would be in the neighborhood of three and a half cents a bushel, I think; the cause of their quitting was that Mr. Armstrong wanted the coal weighed at the tipple; it had been weighed on the hill before; he did not want to have the expense of having it weighed on the hill and at the tipple both; the additional expense of weighing it on the hill and also the tipple would probably be five cents a ton, or something like that; he gave them notice that after a certain day he could not stand the expense of weighing on the hill and at the tipple both; they quit because he would not weigh on the hill; there is more slack when the coal is weighed on the hill than there is when it is weighed at the tipple; it would be a little less weight at the tipple; that would reduce it to about three cents a bushel; if a miner would work all day as farmers' work, from morning until night, I suppose he would dig one hundred bushels a day; the men were at liberty to resume work if they would work and have the coal weighed at the tipple; they refused to do so; I cannot exactly tell the date when they went out; it was probably three weeks before the Italians came; it was some time prior to the 8th of October. (Paper shown witness.) That is the notice, I think, that was put up there and at which the men took offense and would not work any more. The Italians hired at three cents a bushel; the coal was to be weighed at the tipple; that would make a half cent's difference; the men along the road at the mines are now paying three cents, I believe; the cause that compelled the coming down of the price was that coal in the market; to make anything the operators had to come down in the price for digging; for some time after they had gone out and before the Italians came, large numbers of the old miners assembled there on the arrival of almost every train, expecting them; some of them were armed; on the Thursday before the Italians came I suppose there were probably from fifty to a hundred or something like that, congregated there: after they found the Italians did not come that time there was some little firing up the road, and they hallooed and made a little noise; they discharged half a dozen fire arms, or something like that that I heard; they walked up the road a piece and discharged their arms; I could not say that it was understood they were there to meet the Italians when they would come, but it looked very much like it; there were other miners there from Moore's works, both above and below; the regular time for the arrival of one train in the afternoon was five minutes after five o'clock; that is the time these miners would assemble; then there was another train that came along about seven o'clock; very few of them would assemble then—not so many as on the arrival of the other train; Mr. Armstrong brought the Italians there, I think, about twelve o'clock; he did not bring them on the evening train; I suppose the reason he did not bring them on the evening train was that he was afraid they would be attacked if he did; I was there the day the Italians came; they behaved themselves very well; they had arms as they came out of the cars, prepared for an attack; I remained there after they came all except Saturday nights; there was a shot fired from the Buena Vista side of the river the second night after they came; the ball came through the meat shop window and lodged in the side of the door; I think that was the first firing that was done across the river; I could not exactly say where Mr. Armstrong was sitting then; I was not in the meat shop, but he was in there some place, I believe; I think just one shot came in there that night; I think that was the first firing done; I cannot say exactly what time in the night it was that shot came in there; it was between six and seven o'clock, I suppose—along there; there was a light in the meat shop; there is a window on the river side, and you could see from the other side of the river a person sitting in the light near the window; the ball was a musket ball; I could not say how many shots were fired that night across the river; that is the only one that entered the meat shop; I do not remember whether any went into the store that night; I think Mr. Cline was there that night; it was Tuesday night in the week; the Italians came on Monday; after the firing had commenced on them I thought it prudent and necessary to set out pickets and guards at night to guard against an attack and to prevent the burning of the houses; I saw one of the buildings on fire there; that was a dwelling house above the tipple; the house belonged to Mr. Armstrong; I could not tell who was living in it; it was just as a party had moved away; they had just gone out, and the house was set on fire immediately after they got out; it was a party of miners that moved out; we got the fire extinguished, the Italians aided in putting out the fire; the fire had not progressed very far when we discovered it; it was in the roof; it did not do much damage; I suppose ten dollars would repair all the damage; these Italian pickets were the first I heard speak about the fire and run to it; I believe they usually put out twelve pickets at night; they were stationed at different points; Mr. Armstrong's houses and farm buildings extend up and down that railroad probably five hundred yards; the buildings are back in the rear somewhere in the neighborhood of three hundred yards up on the top of the hill; I think it was deemed necessary for the safety of those buildings and the lives of the people there to have these pickets out at night; so far as I know I think the conduct of these pickets when they were out there on guard at night was generally good; we had a hand car and buckets there to put out a fire in case the houses were set on fire.

To Mr. Foster—There was more than one house fired during the operations of these men there; there was another dwelling house and a stable; those were the only ones that I know of; I heard of others being fired, but I did not see them; I could not just tell you whose house it was that was fired; it was three or four doors from the store; it belonged to Mr. Armstrong; I could not tell you anything of the firing of the stable on the farm; I was not there that day.

Cross-examination by Mr. Harvey—We reckon 2,240 pounds of coal there for a ton, and some eighty pounds to a bushel; I think those are the amounts; the contract was made with the Italians at three cents a bushel; they were paid by the bushel; the old miners were paid 70 cents a ton; at 80 pounds to the bushel and 2,240 pounds to the ton it would make 28 bushels to the ton; at three cents a bushel that would make 84 cents a ton; the old miners were weighing their coal at the mouth of the pit; they weighed it there just as it came out; Mr. Armstrong wanted this coal weighed at the tipple; the size of the new screen that was put in for the Italian miners was one inch and a half; the coal was weighed at the tipple after it was screened; the stuff that run through that screen went into the slack pile; the greater part of it did not go into the car with the lump coal; a portion of it did; I was there when these Italians came; I saw old miners there at the time, but I could not say whether they were armed or not; I could not say that I saw any of the old miuers there armed at any time for the purpose of shooting these Italians; I saw them armed; I could not tell for what purpose they were there; it looked very much like it, though; I did not hear Mr. Armstrong say that he was going to run his mines as he chose, no matter what the risk might be; he had three boxes of arms there to my knowledge before the Italians came, I saw three boxes arrive there; I could not tell how many were in each box; I did not count them; but a small portion of the old miners had gone off to work elsewhere before the Italians came; they kept dark during the day, but made their appearance at night; I could not say how many there were; there were more than half a dozen—two or three dozen; none of the deputy sheriffs were there to my knowledge at the time these buildings were fired; Mr. Cline was there, I believe, before the buildings were fired; I could not say that these buildings were fired immediately after the discharge of the deputies; Mr. Guescetti never told me that he had a very dangerous and bad class of men there, and that he could scarcely tell what depredations they would commit upon persons and property there; I do not know that he told that—I do not know anything about it; I do not recollect the circumstance of one of the wagons running off the track up at the pit mouth; I do not know anything of the Italians turning out and making the pit boss lift it on. I was before the Coroner's jury at Caleb Greenwalt's; I was sworn before the inquest; had been in the habit of sleeping at night in the store before the Italians came; it was my habit to sleep there after they came, not all the time, but the greater part of the time—all but probably a week; the conduct of these Italians when they came into the store for anything was pretty fair; it was not customary for so many of the old miners to assemble when the trains arrived as did previous to the arrival of the Italians; generally after they came out of the pits they would dress up and come down to the station after supper to see what was going on and get the papers, and so on; I could not say whether there were more of them there or not than on ordinary occasions when this train with the Italians came in; we all had a little anxiety to see what these Italians looked like; there was a good lot of people there when they came; these pistols the Italians had were navy revolvers; some of them were good and some were not; the barrels of them were probably ten inches long; none of them longer than that—they were all of one size; I saw some of the knives they had with them; some of them I do not think would cut butter unless they were heated; probably there might have been some different ones provided for all I know; never saw any instruments that the blacksmith was making his old files into; I will say I heard he was making some, but I never saw them. The bullets that were shot into the store came in a direction right across the river; one bullet came in slanting; I could not say at what angle it came into the store; I do not think it was at an angle of 25 or 30 degrees; it did not come straight across; that was not the first shot that was fired that came in that direction; that shot came after seven or eight were fired; I do not know that that shot sloped up a little; I suppose the floor of the store is twenty feet from the level of the river; the ground slopes down to the river; I do not know at all that that bullet was shot by Italians that were down to the river; it could have been shot from the opposite side of the river and took the slant it did; I do not know that it was not shot from the opposite side of the river, but not from the Italians. House No. 11 was occupied by an Italian; I never knew of Mr. Armstrong getting any whisky out of that house; I never knew of his buying it from the Italians by the drink.

Re-direct examination—To Mr. Foster—The water we got for the store we generally got at the river after the Italians came; I was not there the Sunday morning the Italians went over to Buena Vista—I never was there Sunday; I never sent at that time or any other time whisky down to the Italians in a bucket; I never kept any at the place; there was nothing of it that I knew of; I do not know why the Italians went over the river on that Sunday morning; I was not there at all.

To Mr. Laird—The first firing done that came across the river was the second night, the time that shot came into the meat house; the first night the Italians came there there was an Italian walking among the cars; in crossing over them he fell down and shot himself; the first shot; several in the neighborhood fired immediately afterwards; I could not say what they fired at; they thought some person had shot; shortly after that they found this man; they were out on picket; that was the first firing there; they appeared to apprehend that somebody was firing at them, and they shot off their guns; I could not say whether they ran or not; I was not there the day they were attacked; three of them were killed; they were miners; I think two of them were young men and one was probably a middle-aged man; one was killed up very near the tipple, one, I believe, near the store, and one probably a little below it; one was killed out of the houses; the man at the tipple was killed on the track; the shots that killed the man at the tipple were fired from the hill on the Westmoreland side; I could not say what shots killed the man below; I could not say whether it was shots from across the river or where. Mr. Armstrong never allowed any whisky to be sold there; he prohibited it entirely; I think it was probably the first or second of December that the arms were sent back to Pittsburgh; I could not say at what date those two boxes were sent back; I know of their gathering up the arms and sending them away; that was probably two weeks before the Sunday the fight came off—somewhere in that neighborhood; I saw them shipped to Pittsburgh; I shipped them myself; the arms in those two boxes were muskets; I could not say how many there were; probably there might have been sixty—somewhere in that neighborhood—I could not exactly tell the number; I suppose the object in sending off these guns was that they had no further use for them; I could not say whether the firing had ceased or not; I suppose it was to try to quiet this thing down that they were shipped away; Mr. Armstrong said something to the effect, I believe, to me, that they would try the experiment of sending away the arms; I think there were one hundred and ten Italians when they first came there, or in that neighborhood; the first night they went on guard one of the men fell and his revolver went off and the ball passed through him; the others thought that something was up and they shot to give the warning; that was the first shot I heard among the Italians; the first ball from the other side was on the second night, and that went through the meat shop; I am acquainted with the localities there. [Map shown witness.] I think that map gives the correct location of Mr. Armstrong's works, and Bell's and those other houses across the river, and Buena Vista; it is correct to the best of my knowledge of the locality.

Inquest.

The Coroner held an inquest yesterday on the body of the man who was killed Tuesday by a freight train at Emsworth station. The name of the deceased was John Mayer. He was employed as a gardener by John P. Dean, hardware dealer, of Pittsburgh, and had in his pocket a large bottle of whisky when struck by the train. The engine struck him in the rear breaking both legs and throwing him back so violently on the cowcatcher as to fracture the skull. Mayer was aged about fifty years, and leaves a family, supposed to be living at Hoboken, on the West Penn Railroad, from whom he had been separated for some time. The accident that caused his death was unavoidable on the part of those in charge of the train. The verdict was accidental death.

The Crooked Whisky.

Yesterday United States Attorney Reed filed a libel in rem against a lot of liquor owned by Goslon & Eastman, of Chicago. This was the lot of crooked whisky, whose seizure by Collector Davis last week was fully noted in these columns. It was seized while in the possession of Munhall & Co., F. X. Raible and R. E. Sellers, for irregularity in the matter of marking, stamping, &c. The lot consists of four barrels brandy, five barrels gin, eight barrels whisky, and one package of spirits, containing 23½ gallons, wine measure. The whole is valued at $211 36. The libel is returnable on the first Monday in July.

POOR GUARDIANS.

Meeting of the Board—Regular Monthly Reports.

A monthly meeting of the Board of Guardians of Pittsburgh was held yesterday.

The Superintendent of the City Home reported admissions during the month of 25 males and 21 females, and a total of inmates June 1st of 189 males and 121 females, making an increase of four during the month. Tramps were accommodated with 80 lodgings and 181 meals.

Dr. A. P. Brewster, of the Hospital, reported 44 patients received during the month of May, making a total of 63 receiving medical attendance. Of these 7 died and 11 were discharged. There were three births during the month.

Dr. George Purviance, of the First district, reported 146 visits and 82 office patients for the month.

Dr. A. W. Chessrown, of the South Side District, reported 61 visits and 66 office patients.

The reports were all received and filed.

A motion was made to dispense with the services of the Engineer at the Home during the summer months; but was lost by a vote of 8 to 4.

SMALL POX PATIENTS.

The committee appointed to confer with the special committee of the Board of Health reported that the latter Board had agreed to take charge of all small pox patients, while the Guardians were to furnish supplies for the different indigent cases.

Secretary Williams reported that the officials of the Pittsburgh, Virginia and Charleston Railroad Company had signified their willingness to erect a station at the Home on either side of the road that the Board should desire. At the same time they requested more land from the Guardians. The matter was discussed at some length, after which the Secretary was instructed to procure the agreement in writing.

Bills to the amount of $1,856 41 were presented and approved.

On motion adjourned.

W. K. HART'S SURETIES.

Judgment Given Against Them for the Poor Fund Deposit.

The case of the Guardians of the City of Pittsburgh vs. W. K. Hart and his sureties, Richard Smyth, Matthew F. Hart, Jared M. Brush and John Penny, to recover money of the Guardians which was in possession of W. K. Hart, as Treasurer, came up before the Common Pleas Court No. 1, yesterday afternoon, Judges Sterrett, Stowe and Collier on the bench. Hart was Treasurer of the Guardians, and deposited $17,369 32 of the money in the bank of Hart, Caughey & Co., which a few months ago suspended. The money was lost and the suit was instituted to recover it from the sureties of the Treasurer.

The matter was brought before the Court yesterday by James I. Kuhn, Esq., the solicitor for the Guardians, on a rule for judgment, for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense. The defense set forth in substance, that the Treasurer was elected to that office on the 11th of February, 1874 and that on the 11th of February, 1875, he was re-elected. The bond was not renewed, nor was any other bond given, and the securities claimed that as the failure occurred after Hart had been re-elected, they could not be held responsible for the loss. The Court, however, ruled differently, and made absolute the rule for judgment, in compliance with the motion of plaintiff's counsel. George Shiras, Esq., who appeared for the defendants, took exceptions to this decision and a bill was sealed for the defendants, and the case will be taken to the Supreme Court.

TO TEACHERS.

Is it Thoughtlessness, or Want of Common Sense?

To the Editor of the Pittsburgh Commercial:

It is a melancholy truth that three fourths of the annoyance arising from conversation during the exercises, at our Institutes and school entertainments, comes from the teachers themselves. The Rev. F. A. Noble, after delivering his excellent and instructive lecture at our last Institute, took occasion to offer the following public reproof: "I regret that I was not aware of the lack of appreciation on the part of teachers, of lectures of this character, before I came here this evening."

Now we as teachers are not, under the present circumstances, favorably situated to bring further public censure upon ourselves. The black eyed female teacher and her friend, who sat near the platform under the right gallery at the High school entertainment last Friday evening, and annoyed every person around them, as well as the performers on the stage, will please take notice: If the same thing is repeated in the presence and hearing of the writer, in any public assembly, their names will be given to the press for publication. It is high time we as teachers should be exemplars in this respect, especially in public audiences. TEACHER.

New School Readers and Primary Speller.

We have been favored, through the kindness of P. R. Flitcraft, Esq., General Agent, with copies of HARVEY'S GRADED SCHOOL READERS AND PRIMARY SPELLER, just from the extensive publishing house of Wilson, Hinkle & Co., publishers of the "Electic Educational Series," Cincinnati and New York. The First Reader may be used to teach beginners by the Word Method, but it is especially arranged and adapted to the Phonic Method, and the different sounds of the language have been indicated by the diacritical marks used by the standard lexicographers. The lessons are appropriately illustrated, and the form such as is likely to attract the attention of the young beginner. They are equally adapted to the printed and script letters. The book, however, is arranged for either method.

The Second Reader is arranged upon the same system. Preceding the lesson are given charts of vocal, subvocal and aspirate sounds, with a table of substitutes and marks and pauses. Each lesson is preceded by select words with diacritical marks, and select topics in paragraph form and tastefully illustrated.

The Third Reader is upon the same system, but a higher grade. The introduction gives a list of elementary and other form of sounds, with table of substitutes, and exercises in articulation, combined consonant sounds, etc. The lessons in reading consist of selections in prose and poetry.

The Fourth Reader opens with a valuable introductory chapter on the various forms of sound, with suitable exercises, showing examples in "Faults to be remedied," and general instructions relative to articulation. Then follow the lessons, with striking words with diacritical marks and meaning explained to the reader. The lessons rise in value and tone as the grade in the series advances.

The Fifth Reader is intended for the highest classes in schools. The selections are fresh and serve to drill in all styles of reading. Great care has been taken to select high toned, moral and religious matter, without denominational bias, or political sentiments. The introductory remarks relative to elocution, articulation, sounds, inflection &c., are timely and valuable.

The Primary Speller is arranged to teach the correct spelling of short, primitive words in common use, with script type in the first pages to familiarize the pupil's eye with the appearance of the written word. Diacritical marks are used like the Graded School Readers.

With this brief sonopsis of each of the series, we name some special features of interest. The typography throughout, including the cover, is neat and showy, type bright and clear, paper pearly white, and the illustrations elegant, artistical, and in good taste. Some idea of the cost may be gathered from the following tariff of prices: Primary Speller, large 16mo., 80 pp., retail, 20c; First Reader, same size, 72 pp., 20c; Fifth Reader, same size, bound in cloth, 336 pp., $1 15. The other volumes of the series the same rates. The price for introducing them is reduced, and for exchange still greater advantages are offered. The author, Prof. Thomas W. Harvey, A. M., is also the author of "Elementary Grammar and Practical Grammar of the English Language." The series is highly commended by experienced public educators, as needed to fill a known want, inasmuch as graded schools have changed in method of instruction and increased in number, and this growth and development demand a class of text books, such as is believed this series will supply.

We understand "Harvey's Graded School Readers and Primary Speller" have been placed on sale at J. R. Weldin & Co.'s, Wood street, this city.

In another column of the COMMERCIAL, this morning, appears the call for the Republican County Conventions to be held on the 15th inst. The call is explicit as to the rules to govern the primary elections, to be held on Saturday the 12th, and sets forth the additional delegates that certain districts are entitled to, under the resolution of the committee, giving representation for every 250 voters. The petitioner is a brother-in-law of the alleged lunatic, and sets forth that by reason of lunacy he has become incapable of managing his own estate, and is wasting and destroying the same. A writ de lunatico inquirendo was issued and John P. Rogers, Esq., appointed Commissioner.

The County Treasurership.

Until within a few days it was understood that the new Constitution would not interfere with the tenure of office of County Treasurer Kilgore, who was elected to serve until March 1876. Attorney General Dimmick has written to H. H. McCormick, Esq., giving the opinion that a County Treasurer must be elected this fall to take his seat in January next. This will cut Mr. Kilgore short a few months, while he believed that his term would be extended.

JUNE.

Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills.

These medicines have undoubtedly performed more cures of Consumption than any other remedy known to the American public. They are compounded of vegetable ingredients, and contain nothing which can be injurious to the human constitution. Other remedies advertised as cures for Consumption, probably contain opium, which is a somewhat dangerous drug in all cases, and if taken freely by consumptive patients, it must do great injury; for its tendency is to confine the morbid matter in the system, which, of course, must make a cure impossible. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is warranted not to contain a particle of opium: It is composed of powerful but harmless herbs, which act on the lungs, liver, stomach, and blood, and thus correct all morbid secretions, and expel all the diseased matter from the body. These are the only means by which Consumption can be cured, and as Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are the only medicines which operate in this way, it is obvious they are the only genuine cure for Pulmonary Consumption. Each bottle of this invaluable medicine is accompanied by full directions. Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed.

The Greene County Narrow Gauge.
Our readers have already been made acquainted with the fact that the much talked of Washington and Waynesburg Narrow Gauge Railroad is now an assured success. At all events the advertisement of the officers for proposals for grading, which appears in another portion of this paper, means business. Bids should be sent to the office of the company, at Waynesburg, Greene county, Pa., before the sixteenth inst. Profiles and specifications may be seen after June 7. It is gratifying to notice that the connecting link by rail between Pittsburgh and the county seat of "little Greene" is at last about to be supplied.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

May.

To all, particularly invalids, spring is a trying season. Indications of sickness should at once be attended to. Fatal diseases may be caused by allowing the bowels to become constipated, and the system to remain in a disordered condition, until the disorder has time to develop itself. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, is an old and truthful saying. Therefore, we advise all who are troubled with the complaints now very prevalent—headache, indigestion, disordered liver, want of appetite, nausea, or feverish skin, to take without delay, Schenck's Mandrake Pills. We know of no remedy so harmless and decisive in its action. It at once strikes at the root of the disease and produces a healthy tone to the system. People never need suffer from any disease arising from a disordered condition of the liver if they would take this excellent medicine when they feel the first indications of the malady. Families leaving home for the summer months should take three or four boxes of these pills with them. They have an almost instantaneous effect. They will relieve the patient of headache in one or two hours, and will rapidly cleanse the liver of surrounding bile, and will effectually prevent a bilious attack. They are sold by all druggists.

A Valuable Discovery.

Dr. C. W. Benson, a Practicing Physician, at 106 North Eutaw street, Baltimore, Md., (who has paid much attention to nervous diseases), has discovered that extract of celery and chamomile combined, in a certain proportion, invariably cures headache, either bilious, dyspeptic, nervous or sick headache, neuralgia and nervousness. This is a triumph in medical chemistry, and sufferers all over the country are ordering by mail. He prepares it in pills at fifty cents per box. The Doctor is largely known and highly respected in Baltimore.—Episcopal Methodist. Sold by all druggists. Harris & Ewing agents for Pittsburgh.

Headache.

It is an established fact that the extract of cranberries and hemp combined by Dr. Miller, 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa., permanently cures the most obstinate cases of dyspeptic, nervous or sick headache, and is an absolute specific for Neuralgia and Nervousness. Prepared in pills. Fifty cents a box. Sent by mail. R. E. Sellers & Co., 45 Wood street, Pittsburgh. TTHS

THE OLD CONTINENTAL.

The Well-known Restaurant Refitted and Re-opened—Messrs. Hathaway & Newell the New Proprietors.

The Continental, formerly the leading restaurant in this city, but which has for some time past been closed, is to be re-opened this evening under the proprietorship of Messrs. Hathaway & Newell, two well-known Pittsburghers. The new firm have for several days past been engaged in renovating and re-fitting the establishment, and it is now one of the neatest, best arranged and most complete restaurants in the city. Among the many noticeable improvements that have been made in the fitting up of a number of private rooms, in which patrons can enjoy their meals apart from the guests who occupy seats in the main dining room. The culinary arrangements have received especial attention, and among these we note a range that is far superior to any that we have seen in use. The table will be supplied with all the delicacies of the season, prepared in the finest style, including shell oysters, clams, etc., etc. At the bar will be found the best ales and the finest brands of wines. In this department Mr. George Reynolds, formerly of the Fifth Avenue House, will be in charge. The eligible location of the Continental, its handsome appearance and the promise of the good cheer that will be provided by the new firm, will no doubt induce a large patronage. Judging by what has already been done to merit public favor we predict for Messrs. Hathaway & Newell success in their enterprise, as they have left nothing undone to secure it.

CHICAGO.

National Temperance Convention.

CHICAGO, June 2.—In the National Temperance Convention this morning, after the opening exercises, Mrs. Martha B. O'Donnell, of New York, delivered an address in behalf of the Juvenile Templars, in which she explained the extent and aims of the organization, and advocated the introduction of temperance pledges in Sunday schools.

Mr. Byers, formerly Chaplain of the Ohio State Penitentiary, stated his experience among convicts, and said that out of 2,150 criminals he had examined, only three per cent. had been Sunday school scholars.

A discussion on this subject sprang up, in the coure of which considerable variety of experience was given. The subject of temperance literature was then discussed, and a resolution passed recommending that churches provide themselves with temperance libraries. A resolution was also passed requesting the next Congress to appoint a committee to inquire into the effects of alcoholic drinks in America.

CINCINNATI.

National Brewers' Convention.

CINCINNATI, June 2.—The National Brewers' Convention assembled in this city to-day. In the absence of the President, Mr. H. Claussen was appointed President pro tem. He delivered a lengthy address, reviewing the acts of Congress in the past, and the state of the malt liquor trade during the past year. He considered the action of Congress regarding the revenue tax, and State legislation regarding prohibition, and was very severe on the women's crusade in the West, and charged the Republican party with the responsibility of the temperance movement.

FROM BROOKVILLE.

Decoration Day—How it Was Observed.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.
BROOKVILLE, May 31, 1875.

Decoration Day, Saturday, May 29, in this patriotic borough, presented the first real business appearance in four months. Indeed, business was so brisk that only five men ventured to go on foot to the different graveyards, while the balance of the procession consisted of two buggies and the brass band. Some of our dry goods men, three of a firm and a clerk, all stood on the pavement looking for a customer to purchase a ten cent calico dress; hardware, grocery, clothing, "sheap" clothing, and boot and shoe men, all stood still on the curbstones, one eye on the music and the other looking in vain for customers. Citizens, generally, were loafing on the streets, but had no time to spare to do honor to the memory of those who fell in defense of their country. It was a sorry sight to see so many men out looking for customers, while only five soldiers on foot, beside the brass band and the occupants of the two buggies, took part in the decoration ceremonies. There seemed to be an unusual desire to do business at this particular time, while one good man could easily have sold all the goods that were purchased the entire day. The editors of our two newspapers, the preachers, lawyers, doctors, and even the ladies were too full of business to aid in the beautiful and sacred ceremony of strewing with bright flowers the graves of our fallen heroes. All honor is due to the members of the band, who, although laboring men and mechanics, were so willing to lose the time given on this occasion. TRUTH.

The Indianapolis Sentinel says it is a very safe venture to assert that there is more actual work in railroad building now in progress in Indiana with the sure promise of completion than in any other State. Most of the enterprises are of comparatively small magnitude, but there are a great many of them. They consist of short lines to develop local interests, and links to fill up gaps in extended connections.

TILTON-BEECHER.

Mr. Evarts Continues—A Fine Vein of Sarcasm and Satire—The Weak Points in Tilton's Testimony Pointed Out.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The attraction of the Masonic procession materially reduced the attendance to-day at the Tilton-Beecher trial. Mr. Evarts continued his address for the defense, and said they would consider the probable attitude, tone and the reception of the accusation which marked the first interview between the accusing husband and the adulterer. Was adultery to be treated like a cut finger or a bruised brow? When the injured husband met the defiler of his marriage bed and the shame of his children and childrens' children, the jury might imagine if there be at the bottom an opinion on the part of the accuser and consciousness on the part of the accused. They would have an interview for which no previous knowledge beforehand could have warned them. Counsel would show them that plaintiff's story of that interview was a self-exposed, self-convicted invention. The plaintiff understood that his wife's confession could not be made the subject of a case against Beecher. They allowed parties to be convicted on their own confessions, however. Counsel would show them that plaintiff had covered his story with such inconsistencies as made it appear incredible. He knew the law would not permit a statement of what occurred between himself and wife, and he wove it in a narrative which he should tell the jury he had related to Beecher. He said he would gild this story so that it would be believed, and he was as has been shown, the victim of his own shallow philosophy. The jury had been shown how Bowen saw the folly of his attack on Beecher.

Then came the interview between the husband and alleged paramour. How would all the passion, the anger and grief of the injured man pour forth in a flood at such an interview? Yet Mr. Tilton's narrative of this meeting was entirely inconsistent with such a situation. He began, he said, by telling Beecher he wished him to blot out of his memory the letters he had written to him, and that he wished to ascertain how Beecher felt toward him. He knew Beecher loved his wife, but he wished to find out how he regarded him. Mr. Evarts considered the testimony of Tilton in regard to this interview in detail, arguing that the whole conversation was absurdly inconsistent with the charge of adultery under such circumstances.

Mr. Evarts then discussed the alleged written confession of Mrs. Tilton, the original of which was destroyed by Moulton after the tripartite agreement, while the copy used by Tilton on December 30th, was destroyed in the same interview. He called attention to the fact that in the argument on the question of law, it was maintained by plaintiff's counsel, Messrs. Beach and Fullerton, that this copy was purposely destroyed by Tilton, with Beecher's consent. Yet the very next time the plaintiff went upon the stand he threw his counsel overboard and said the paper was accidently destroyed by his twisting it in his fingers. during the heat of conversation. The counsel then urged the jury to remember that the fact that Tilton told Beecher his wife had said certain things, was no proof that she did say them. No evidence of what she did say could be introduced in any other way, and Tilton, while he could be cross-examined as to whether he told Beecher all this rigmarole, could not be cross-examined as to his conversations with his wife. Mr. Evarts read the testimony of Tilton as to his wife's statements to him in July, 1870, and commented upon the alleged confession as contrary to all nature and probability. Tilton could invent speeches for Tilton, but he could not invent them for this woman. This alleged confession betrayed no consciousness of sin or gilt on the part of the woman whose eyes flashed fire when they looked upon Victoria Woodhull. So improbable was all this alleged conversation, that it was not to be regarded for a moment when a witness like Beecher declared that nothing like it was ever brought to his ears. After a calm and deliberate introduction, according to Tilton, his wife told him that the secret she had referred to was one between her and Henry Ward Beecher, her pastor. Well, she was careful that there should be no mistake about the person, when she gave him his full name, his title and his office. She did not want her husband to infer that she had committed adultery with the man in the moon. She went on, according to Tilton, to give a special and deliberate account of her relations with Beecher from the beginning. Was this the way in which an agonized wife, impelled by stings of conscience, would confess her guilt to her injured husband? Would she not have done it with sobs and tears, with dishevelled hair and with her face buried in the pillows? Mrs. Tilton explained that her first act of adultery with Beecher was the result of her grief for the death of Paul, who, she was particular to say, was her son. Such an act being the natural consequence of the state of a mother's mind after her child's death, there was no need to argue about this. [Laughter.] Mrs. Tilton said that the act was next repeated at her own house, and as most people were liable to move she specified that her house was at No. 174 Livingston street. [Great laughter.] She also said that the act was committed at other places, but, strange to say, these other places did not appear to have been specified by her, particular as she was, nor to have been found out by others.

Mr. Evarts then spoke of the uncertainty expressed by Mrs. Tilton as to the criminality of committing adultery with Beecher, and said that if such was the state of mind of a woman confessed by her husband to be pure-minded, a woman thirty-five years of age, and the mother of six children, we must ask maidens at the altar their opinion on the propriety of such acts in order to avoid any difference of opinion between them and their husbands. [Laughter.] Mr. Evarts then referred to Mrs. Tilton's explanation of the way in which her scruples were overcome. In a sentence almost as long and involved as those which the newspapers accused him of using since, Mr. Tilton was informed that the crime had been committed. It must have been pleasant for him to have the manner of it thus carefully explained. [Laughter.]

Why or how Mrs. Tilton got from No. 174 Livingston street to the house of her tempter on the 10th of October, 1868, was not yet explained. Was she carried there in her sleep? Another part of Mrs. Tilton's confession presented the anomaly of a woman, wholly pure in mind, free from all low and degrading impulses, who deliberately yielded herself to the profligacy of a hypocritical religious teacher. This was the way in which Tilton made adultery easy and pure; this was the verbal protection he gave to those acts which strike at the very heart of the female character. Mr. Evarts proceeded at this point to describe what Tilton calls his wife's "awakening to the sin of adultery." For a year it had never occurred to her that there was anything wrong about it, but all at once the thought burst upon her that, after all, the keeping of two bedfellows might not be right. It was not so much adultery that troubled her, as the thought that Theodore did not know about it. She told him all in order to relieve her mind. This is Theodore's version. Can any intelligent person believe this—believe that a woman, active in Christian work, brought up under Christian influences, familiar with the commandments, could go on committing adultery with her pastor, quite unconscious that she was sinning? But those who believe Theodore Tilton must believe this.

After cross-examination and on the direct, Tilton was asked what he meant by his wife being pure and all that sort of thing, and he said that he became acquainted with Elizabeth at ten years of age. At sixteen he was her lover; at twenty she was married to him, and for fifteen years he had held her to his breast and worshipped her as his idol. He (Tilton) thought she had committed the offense while in a trance. That was his excuse for his wife's adultery He also testified that Elizabeth said she was not to be judged by her mother or her husband, but only by God, and that if her offense was sinful God would not have allowed it to be committed. From Indianapolis down, Beecher had been the condemner of all the wicked passions and sins, and Mr. Morris could not make out a sufficient condemnation against this defendant without the invective against the sin of incontinency spoken of by him to young men.

The court here adjourned.
